APOLLO RETURNS SAFELY

AP

ONE-CAR CRASH FATAL TO GRAND ISLAND MAN

A 57-year-old Grand Island man was killed Thursday when the car he was driving crashed off a Hall County gravel road east of the Fonner Park race track. The State Patrol identified the victim as Edwin C. Jenkins, who was alone at the time of the crash. The patrol said the northbound car went out of control into a ditch off the Stuhr Road. The top of the car was partially sheared off when it smashed into a telephone pole, throwing Jenkins from the vehicle. The car then struck an irrigation well. The death, Hall County's fourth of 1972, raises Nebraska's toll to 117, compared with 101 on the same date a year ago.

'You Got Your Money's Worth'

. . . YOUNG COMMENTS

Aboard USS Ticonderoga (AP) — Apollo 16's astronauts splashed safely into the South Pacific Thursday, completing their mission to the mountains of the moon. The Apollo commander reported: "The condition of the crew is outstanding."

The men, John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II returned to their home planet with 245 pounds of rocks collected from lunar highlands formed billions of years before man walked the Earth.

They thus fulfilled a mission that one week ago was almost cut short just before the moon landing—man's fifth—was made.

"You really got your money's worth on this one," Young told the people of his country.

Precisely On Time

The command ship Casper splashed down precisely on time at 1:44 p.m. CST within a mile of the carrier Ticonderoga.

The spacecraft flipped upside down on landing, a common occurrence with Apollo landings, but the astronauts quickly uprighted it by inflating three tan balloons on the sharp point at the top of the cone-shaped craft. Swimmers leaped from hovering helicopters and stabilized the bobbing spacecraft with a sea anchor and a flotation collar.

There was no communication with the astronauts while their craft was upside down in the water, but when it righted itself Young quickly reported the crew was fine.

"Just super," chimed in Duke.

President Nixon later called the astronauts from Key Biscayne, Fla., to congratulate them and give Duke and Mattingly military promotions. Duke, an Air Force lieutenant colonel, became a colonel, and Mattingly, a Navy lieutenant commander, became a commander. Young is a Navy captain and congressional approval is required for the next rank, admiral.

'Entire Nation Is Proud'

"You did a great job and the entire nation is proud of you," Nixon told the spacemen.

"Thank you very much, Mr. President," Young responded.

Earlier, in a written statement, Nixon praised the astronauts for "a job well done."

Dr. George Lowe, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said Apollo 16 succeeded despite a series of problems.

Relay By Satellite

So close was the landing to this recovery ship that sailors on its decks and television viewers could plainly see the white drogue chutes deploy, followed seconds later by the main parachutes, which streamed out partially collapsed, as planned, before blooming into huge, taunt mushrooms of nylon. Television coverage was relayed by satellite.

Thirty-nine minutes after Casper slipped into the water, the astronauts were on board the ship, brought there by helicopter.

Wearing blue flight suits and black baseball-style caps, the trio stepped from the helicopter onto a red carpet as a band played "Anchors Aweigh."

"It really is great to be back," said Young.

He said he wanted to thank four groups of people. The first was his crewmates, saying "Ken and Charlie performed in an outstanding fashion.

"I would like to say outstanding," he said. "For you Navy guys, that means a 'hearty well done.' "

He also thanked Mission Control and then "a third group of people who people don't talk about much—the American taxpayers." "You saw teamwork in action — the kind of thing that made this country great and is going to keep it that way."

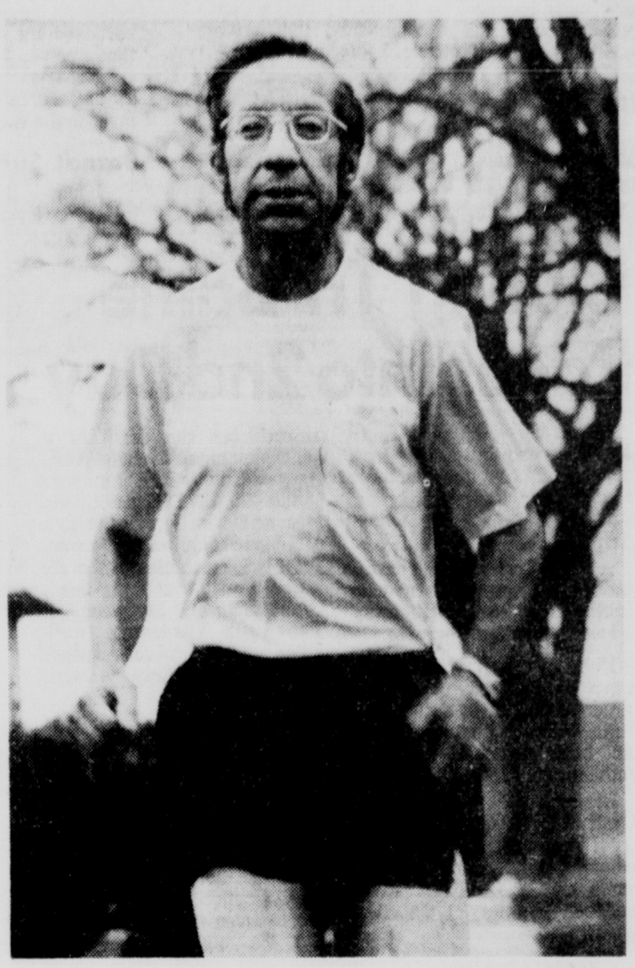

'Mission of Discovery'

Young said Apollo 16 was "a mission of discovery. There are secrets in that vehicle (the spacecraft) that nobody knows," he said. "We're going to find those things and one of these days it's going to benefit us all. I can guarantee you I feel that if we had not done our mission we'd have been remiss in not uncovering this basic knowledge."

The astronauts were taken below decks for medical examinations and a doctor reported a few minutes later, "They look to be in good physical condition."

"They are all happy about being back and are anxious to have some food and something to drink," said Dr. Charles LaPinta.

"And they would all like to take showers."

REV. HASS . . . takes running seriously.

Run For Development Planned By Rev. Hass

By JIM DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

The Rev. LeRoy Hass, of 1103 So. 31st, is one person who will not be walking in the Lincoln Walk for Development Saturday April 29th. He will run instead.

The 49-year-old father of four has been interested in running for the past four years and started seriously running long distances two years ago.

He said his interest in running was sparked when he read a magazine article about an exercise plan based on aerobics, the concept of the deliverance of oxygen through the body as a key to good health.

When he began his running program he couldn't even run one mile in nine minutes, he said. Last month he averaged 6 minutes and 53 seconds per mile in a 20 kilometer run at Pioneers Park. He plans to average eight minutes per mile on the 29th.

In June of 1970 Rev. Hass entered the National AAU marathon in Iowa with three goals in mind: (1) to finish the race, (2) to finish with the top five men over 40 and (3) to finish in under three hours.

Although he didn't make the 26 miles and 385 yards in under three hours he did manage to finish among the top five of those over 40.

Rev. Hass had originally planned to run in the Drake Relays on the 29th but changed his mind when organizers of the Lincoln Walk for Development asked him to participate here.

He says he is running for a variety of reasons but primarily because he feels adults should support young people in their projects.

All too often, he said, the adults set up a program and then ask the youth to participate. It is only fair that the adults participate when young people set up a program.

Rev. Hass termed his running a "one man protest against our sacred cow." In India, he said, the cows are worshiped and allowed to go wherever they like. In America, the automobile is worshiped in a sense and is allowed to pollute the environment while it has the right of way over almost anything.

Also, he is running as a "personal plug" for physical fitness. He said that most people today do not walk or exercise, adding "if I can do it at my age it can be done."

He hopes that by his example people may be encouraged to be physically fit and make contributions to charitible projects helping others.

Rev. Hass is presently doing his internship for his degree in clinical psychology working at the Lincoln Regional Center, the Child Guidance Center and one day a week as a probation officer for the Municipal Court.

He is living on a stipend from the National Institute of Mental Health.

He is also maintaining a part time chaplaincy at Bryan Memorial Hospital visiting out of town Lutherns.

Rev. Hass says his idol is Larry Lewis of San Francisco. He is 104-years-old, works full time as a waiter, takes care of his 80-year-old wife and still manages to run six miles a day.

Muskie Quits Active Campaign

Washington (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, his once-bright prospects battered by a series of primary defeats, withdrew Thursday from active campaigning in Democratic primaries but said he'll stay in the presidential race.

Almost to a man, Muskie's big-name supporters said they will stand by his candidacy, hoping he might still emerge as a possible compromise choice at the Democratic National Convention this July in Miami Beach. Privately, however, some conceded this was unlikely.

Muskie told a jammed news conference his decision was forced by "diminishing support and diminishing resources," specifically Tuesday's twin defeat in the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries. "I do not have the money to continue," he said.

Muskie said he would remain a candidate in deference to supporters who want to keep working for him. He conceded "this decision reduces my prospects in the campaign" but said a compromise candidacy at Miami Beach is "a possible option."

McGovern Vs. Humphrey

From a practical standpoint, Muskie's withdrawal from active candidacy is expected to accelerate the polarization of the Democratic race into a two-way fight between Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George S. McGovern, the winners in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts respectively.

In Ohio, the two senators were already believed running ahead of Muskie in next Tuesday's primary, despite support for Muskie by Gov. John J. Gilligan. He said, "I am still a Muskie man until he says he's out of it" but added he had advised the senator a day earlier "his chances were less than 50-50" in the state.

Others also are in the presidential contest, most notably Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who is trying again in Ohio after finishing third in Florida and fifth in Wisconsin, and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, who captured Florida and finished second in Wisconsin and Pennsylvania.

But most party leaders believe McGovern and Humphrey have become the unquestioned front-runner though most of the 3,016 delegates are yet to be selected. Muskie's decision is seen as likely to reduce the chances of a deadlocked convention that would turn to someone else, such as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Tunney Friend Of Ted

Sen. John V. Tunney of California, a close personal friend of Kennedy who is backing Muskie, said he will still vote for the Maine senator in the June 6 California primary but that lack of funds would prevent any campaign in his behalf.

Tunney said he rates McGovern slightly ahead in California now.

If a statement does occur, Tunney said, and a third candidate comes to the fore, "It's more likely to be Sen. Muskie than Sen. Kennedy."

Another top party official said, however, that Kennedy's name would certainly be the first to be considered in event of a deadlocked convention.

McGovern said of Muskie's announcement: "I can't mourn when one of the competitors steps to the sidelines." But he said Muskie was a "consistently gracious and decent candidate."

'Should Be Fighter'

Humphrey said: "The man who gets the presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention should be the man who has fought his way through the primaries."

Wallace called Muskie "a fine, high-type man" and said there was a "tinge of sadness" about Muskie's statement.

For Muskie, Thursday's announcement came a little more than seven weeks after he entered the primary season as the clear party front-runner, backed by an impressive array of governors, senators and other top party leaders.

In the primaries, however, this leadership was unable to produce at the polls for Muskie. Significantly, John F. English, the architect of the Muskie strategy to use big-name endorsements as a means to win the nomination, dropped from sight a week ago and was not at Muskie's news conference.

Key Provision Altered To Try To Avert Veto

Washington (AP) — The Senate Labor Committee approved a $9 billion anti-poverty bill Thursday after altering a key provision to try to avert a veto by President Nixon.

The provision would transfer the program of Legal Services for the Poor from the Office of Economic Opportunity, the anti-poverty agency, to an independent corporation.

Nixon favors such a transfer, which would end the right of governors to veto Legal Services programs.

But he vetoed an antipoverty bill last December in part because it would not have given the President control of the new corporation.

The Senate panel adopted an amendment of Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., which would give Nixon firm control. Javits said he felt it was essential to prevent another veto.

Under the amendment, Nixon would name outright ten of the corporation's 19 directors. He would pick the other nine on the basis of recommendations from bar groups, lawyers in the program, and clients of the program.

The bill vetoed last year and the present measure as approved in subcommittee would not have allowed the president to name on his own a majority of the directors.

The measure would authorize about $3 billion each for the current fiscal year and the next two years. This would be about $700 million more than actually is being spent in the current year.

For fiscal 1973 and 1974 each, the allotments would include $1 billion for the regular OEO programs such as Community Action and health services, $950 million for manpower training programs, $500 million for the Neighborhood Youth Corps, $500 million for preschool children in Head-Start, and $100 million for Follow Through to aid children after they enter school.

The committee made further concessions to Nixon by including in the bill less earmarking of funds for specific programs than the 1971 measure contained, and by softening the provision designed to prevent the President from transferring poverty programs from OEO to other agencies.

The subcommittee earlier agreed to separate a child development program, objected vehemently to by Nixon in his previous veto message, from the other proposals in the OEO bill.

Trial Is Ordered For Policeman In Burglary

Omaha (AP) — A former Omaha policeman has been ordered by Municipal Court Judge Paul Hickman to stand trial in District Court on a charge of burglarizing the clubhouse at the Westborough Arms Apartments on March 20.

Leonard Mattsen, 25, was working off-duty as a security guard at the apartments when the burglary occurred, police said. Officers said $300 was taken from a desk, and a cigarette machine was damaged.

Mattsen, free on $500 bond, was arrested April 10. He was dismissed by Police Chief Richard R. Andersen on April 11.

Rock Groups 'Gold Mine' For Pershing

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The biggest money-makers at Pershing Auditorium so far this season have been rock groups like Three Dog Night, Grand Funk Railroad, Bread and Black Sabbath, or rock spectacles like Hair and Jesus Christ Superstar.

"That's where it's at. That's the gold mine," said Ike Hoig, manager of Pershing Auditorium.

It's the profit that is made on this type of entertainment that in Hoig's words, "subsidizes some of the civic and charity activities" that take place at the auditorium.

According to Hoig, some local groups are allowed to use the auditorium even though the rent they are paying will not cover the building's operational expenses.

But this situation will exist only as long as the auditorium is able to book 'big names' rock performers who attract large crowds.

And not surprisingly, the element that attracts big name performers is nothing less than the lure of profits.

"Lincoln is on the map only as long as we keep making the grosses," he said. "As soon as we have a few losers, we're dead."

In essence, this means that promoters must feel confident that they can make a profit from bringing performers to Lincoln, Hoig said.

Although claiming that the taste's of young people in Lincoln are no different from those in any other area of the country, Hoig says the business of promoting is a "terrible gamble."

In the short haul, the promoter is the only person who stands to lose from a rock group's appearance, because he must guarantee a minimum rent for Hoig and a minimum fee for the performers. (A performer like Neil Diamond might want $15,000.)

However, the promoter is gambling that there will be a large gross income from ticket sales. Then the group would rather take their share (60%) and Hoig would rather take his share (10%). The remaining 30% goes to the promoter.

So far this season, Hoig said, Lincoln has been successful in attracting big name groups and in providing their promoters with an adequate gross.

One notable exception was the B. J. Thomas concert.

"We got our rent, but the promoter must have lost thousands," Hoig said.

Hoig describes his position as that of a landlord, but he also exercises some discretion on who will appear in Lincoln.

For example, he might turn down a group that has a record of "misbehaving" in a confidential report from the Auditorium Managers Association.

He also acts as the promoter for shows like Disney on Parade, the Harlem Globetrotters and ice shows.

"If I were just out to make a profit I would book only rock groups," Hoig said. "But I have an obligation to the community to provide other types of entertainment.

New York Times News Summary

Secret U.S.-North Vietnamese Talks Imminent

(c) New York Times News Service

Paris — The Vietnam peace talks resumed Thursday amid indications that secret talks between the United States and North Vietnam were imminent. At the public session, both sides accused the other of aggression and of a refusal to negotiate seriously. But a North Vietnamese delegate commented that private meetings were "probable." (More on Page 3.)

Hanoi Accused Of 'Bad Faith'

Washington — A State Department spokesman accused North Vietnam of acting in "bad faith" by launching renewed attacks in South Vietnam just as the American delegation was returning to the negotiating table in Paris. The White House made similar charges. (More on Page 3.)

Lines Harden In Congress

Washington — President Nixon's latest policy statement on the war appeared to have hardened the lines in Congress. For the first time, some prominent Republicans began to suggest—as Nixon had obliquely — that critics of the administration were giving encouragement to the enemy.

Brandt Survives Barely

Bonn — By a mere two votes, an attempt by West Germany's conservative opposition to topple the government of Chancellor Willy Brandt failed. (More on Page 3.)

Committee OKs Kleindienst

Corporations In Noncompliance

Washington — A member of the Price Commission staff disclosed that nearly half of the nation's major corporations have failed to comply with the regulations requiring them to file quarterly earnings reports. The law requires the statements to be filed by next Monday, at the latest. The commission staff is considering imposing more stringent sanctions against companies that miss the deadline.

Apollo 16 Splashes Down

Houston — A safe splash-down in the Pacific ocean ended the 11-day moon voyage of Apollo 16. (More on Page 1.)

GM Won't Cut Prices

Detroit — General Motors reported record first quarter profits but refused to reduce any of its prices, as Ford did Wednesday in reporting that it had a good first quarter. GM's refusal could bring it into conflict with the Price Commission, which has been pushing for price rollbacks when profits soar. (More on Page 3.)

Muskie Quits Campaigning

Washington — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, as expected, abandoned his active presidential candidacy, but he offered himself as a possible compromise nominee. (More on Page 1.)

Parole Granted Baker

Washington — The United States Board of Parole granted a parole to Robert G. Baker, the one-time Senate aide to Lyndon B. Johnson who was the center of a political scandal in the 1960s. (More on Page 3.)

Quang Tri Battle Rages Into 2nd Day

Saigon (AP) — Fighting raged into a second day Friday in a renewed North Vietnamese bid to seize the northernmost provincial capital of Quang Tri.

A large column of enemy tanks was reported moving southeast on national Highway 1 below embattled Dong Ha.

Five of the enemy tanks were reported knocked out. Field reports said it was the first time North Vietnamese tanks had been spotted in that area moving openly in daylight.

Earlier, AP correspondent Lynn C. Newland reported from the northern front that enemy tanks were moving south of the Cua Viet River between Highway 1 and the coast.

Battle In 2nd Day

He said the heavy fighting that raged Thursday in Quang Tri Province diminished during the night, but started again at daybreak in the same areas and at the same levels of intensity as the previous day.

The U.S. Command said one American adviser was wounded late Thursday in a shelling attack one mile south of Quang Tri City.

In other developments:

—Government Fire Base Ollie in hard-pressed Binh Dinh Province on the central coast was abandoned without a fight Thursday night. It was the second to fall in two days, placing the heavily populated Crescent Valley in jeopardy.

—A few miles from Saigon, South Vietnamese forces claimed that they killed 270 enemy troops in two daylong battles in Tay Ninh and Binh Duong provinces.

—The allied commands announced the loss of four U.S. and two South Vietnamese aircraft and the death in a helicopter crash of Brig. Gen. Nguyen Huy Anh, commander of the 4th Air Division in the Mekong Delta. He was the 13th allied general killed in the war. Total U.S. casualties in the six losses were put at three dead, two missing and two wounded. Two South Vietnamese were killed and two were missing, and two South Koreans were killed.

Two Helicopters

The four U.S. aircraft reported down were a Marine F4 Phantom fighter-bomber that crashed with a South Vietnamese observation plane over Da Nang Harbor; a UH1 helicopter that fell while taking evasive action to avoid mortar fire between the central coast and the highlands; another UH1 shot down while supporting Saigon forces in the highlands, and an Air Force RF4 shot down over North Vietnam.

A U.S. officer at Quang Tri said 10 enemy tanks were destroyed in the armored engagement five to six miles north of Quang Tri. The South Vietnamese command reported 70 enemy soldiers killed in the province at a cost of 7 government soldiers killed and 12 wounded. When the enemy stormed across the demilitarized zone March 30, it was believed that Quang Tri and its nearby military base was the prime objective.

The savagery of the fighting in the enemy's new offensive was reflected in casualty figures for last week. The South Vietnamese reported 1,149 soldiers killed and 3,376 wounded, the heaviest of the war. The U.S. Command said 10 Americans were killed, 8 were missing and 78 wounded, the heaviest losses in six months.

FIRE DESTROYS SCANLON BAR

An estimated $100,000 damage was caused by a fire which destroyed the Scanlon Bar and Lounge at Scanlon, Minn. The cause of the Thursday morning blaze was not determined, and no one was hurt. The frame structure stood at the eastern terminus of Interstate 35. It was well-known to travelers between Duluth and the Twin Cities.

15 'Marching Mothers' Limp Into Washington

Washington (UPI) — Fifteen "marching mothers," limping with foot sores after protest walks from Michigan and Virginia, delivered antibusing petitions containing "hundreds of thousands" of signatures Thursday to sympathetic congressmen on the steps of the Capitol.

An estimated 2,000 visitors, who had traveled by chartered bus and car from a dozen states from coast to coast, welcomed them and joined their protest against forced busing.

The several armloads of petitions filled with signatures called on Congress to support a proposed constitutional amendment to forbid court-ordered busing to desegregate public schools.

Mrs. Irene McCabe, mother of three, who walked with six other mothers 620 miles from Pontiac, Mich., told cheering admirers at the rally near the Washington Monument, "I've suffered a great deal of pain on this walk."

Mrs. McCabe and one woman who will be chosen from among the eight who walked more than 100 miles from Richmond, Va., planned to try to enlist stronger White House support Friday in a meeting with John Ehrlichman, President Nixon's top domestic affairs adviser.

Nixon has introduced antibusing legislation, but said amending the Constitution would take too long. Nixon has directed the Justice Department to intervene in school desegregation cases to try to keep court busing orders at a minimum.

In an action coinciding with the antibusing rallies, the Justice Department sought to intervene in a school desegregation case in Oklahoma City. This was the fifth busing case the department has sought to intervene in since Nixon made his antibusing proposals March 17.

Previously, the department has ought to intervene in cases in Detroit, Richmond, Nashville and Dallas.

As the marchers arrived in the city, the Michigan Civil Rights Commission implored Congress to reject antibusing legislation.

Secret Service Stays Elsewhere

Key Biscayne, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon's Secret Service bodyguards normally stay at the Royal Biscayne Hotel here, but most of them were forced to find quarters this weekend across the bay in Miami.

The Royal Biscayne, a Sheraton hotel, is booked solid by a convention of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. credit managers.

Curtis Starts With $180,000

(c) Washington Star

Washington — The first money reports under the new campaign disclosure law indicate at least some Senate and House incumbents participated in a winter gold rush when donors' names could still be kept secret.

Scattered filings for senators and congressmen in only the first eight states covered show their campaign committees with a combined $1.4 million listed as "cash on hand" when the law took effect April 7.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., top Republican member of the Senate Finance Committee, is starting with an unidentified $180,000 — half of it held in a trust using two Nebraska businessmen's names.

(Reports filed with the secretary of state's office in Lincoln shows $93,319 in the hands of the Citizens for Curtis Committee and $90,578 in receipts from the Cornhuskers for Curtis dinner being held for the Republican senatorial nominee.)

Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, the ranking Republican on the Senate Banking Committee, headed all candidates with $398,000 raised in advance to begin his re-election campaign.

Banking Committee Chairman John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., pulled in at least $157,000 before his primary, part of it coming from a national drive by the finance industry to boost both senators.

Under the new law, campaign groups for the Senate and House must report the names, address and occupation of any donor of more than $100 after the April 7 date. The grace period before then spurred a hectic early fund-raising rush both in Washington and in home states.

Tower, Curtis, Sparkman and other candidates are known to have used so-called "D.C. Committees" set up in the District of Columbia where under the old law, no public reports were required.

Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., due to move up next year to top-ranking Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee, acknowledged more than half of his advance $19,000 came from a D.C. conduit.

Schneebeli put the figure raised from Washington interests at "somewhere between $10,000 and $12,000" and said it came "from some of my friends in business." He would not identify them further.

Committee Votes To OK Kleindienst

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee voted 11 to 4 Thursday to end two months of politically explosive ITT hearings and approve Richard G. Kleindienst a second time to succeed John N. Mitchell as attorney general.

Kleindienst's Democratic opponents on the committee vowed to take their fight to the Senate floor, where the issue will be taken up some time after mid-May. A bitter debate that could tie up the Senate for weeks seemed likely.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., gaveled his committee's hearings to a close after Kleindienst, testifying for the fifth day, denied again that the White House had brought any pressure to bear in the Justice Department's out-of-court settlement of a major antitrust case against International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

Kleindienst, who was deputy attorney general when the case was being considered last year, also refused to answer any questions about a senatorial aide's alleged bribe attempt in Kleindienst's office to stop prosecution of a Mafia leader in a New York stock fraud case.

Kleindienst said it would be "improper" for him to discuss a matter that might be sent back to a jury for retrial.

Both the ITT and the bribery cases purportedly involved offers of substantial political contributions to the Republican Party.

The committee, which orginally approved the Kleindienst nomination Feb. 29 after two days of hearings, reopened them at his request after columnist Jack Anderson published a memorandum written on ITT stationery which suggested a connection between the antitrust settlement and an ITT subsidiary's offer to help finance the Republican National Convention next August.

Opposing Kleindienst's nomination Thursday were Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; John V. Tunney, D-Calif.; Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Quentin Burdick, D-N.D. Abstaining was Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

(Voting for the nomination AP reported were Republicans Roman Hruska of Nebraska, Hiram Fong of Hawaii, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, Marlow Cook of Kentucky, Charles Mathias of Maryland and Edward Gurney of Florida. They were joined by four Democrats — Eastland, Sam J. Ervin Jr. of North Carolina, Philip A. Hart of Michigan and Robert Byrd of West Virginia.)

Three-Month Deficit In Trade Is Largest

Washington (UPI) — The United States recorded another deficit in its balance of trade with foreign nations in March and wound up the first three months of 1972 with the largest quarterly trade deficit in history, the Commerce Department said Thursday.

The surplus in the value of imports over exports in March was $584.3 million, a slight improvement over the $597.6 million trade deficit in February. March was the sixth consecutive month with a deficit and the eleventh monthly deficit in the past 12 months.

Commerce Department officials said the trade deficit for the first quarter of 1972 was a record high $1.5 billion, which was $178 million larger than the previous record in the previous quarter.

The report said imports in March totaled $4.475 billion while the value of exports was $3.890 billion.

The Commerce Department said increases in both exports and imports were probably due in part to the end of the dock strike on the West Coast.

Pay Of Persons Missing In Asia Now Tax-Exempt

Key Biscayne, Fla. (AP) — The Florida White House said Thursday President Nixon has signed legislation exempting from federal taxes the full pay of military and civilian personnel missing in action or captured in Southeast Asia.

Until the change, only combat pay was exempt from taxes. The measure also authorizes refunds for income received after Feb. 28, 1961 — the date set in the legislation as the starting point for the Vietnam conflict.

North Vietnamese Say Secret Talks Probable

Paris (AP) — The North Vietnamese said Thursday secret talks on the Vietnam war were probable. The statement was issued after both sides returned to the bargaining table.

The first meeting of the two sides in five weeks erupted into charges and denials of a North Vietnamese invasion of the South. But they agreed to meet next Thursday.

Nguyn Minh Vy, North Vietnam's deputy chief delegate, said Politburo member Le Duc Tho will arrive from Hanoi within a week. He then addad that secret talks were probable. Tho met privately in Paris last ytar with Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter refused to comment on the North Vietnamese statement.

"I sure hope when Le Duc Tho arrives here that he's got something better than what they produced in there today," Porter said as he left the meeting. "It was absolute boilerplate from the past . . . They refused to answer the questions."

At the meeting, Porter called on North Vietnam "as a first item of business . . . to end our invasion and commence withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam."

Corresponding Reuction

He said if progress could be made on this, the United States could reply with "a corresponding reduction in the level and intensity of our retaliatory responst to that invasion."

Porter warned that Washington would again break off the talks if the North Vietnamese "refuse to deal with the substance of both the present invasion and general problems of peace, including prisoners of war and those missing in action."

North Vietnamese delegate Xuan Thuy told Porter: "The U.S. claim about invasion of South Vietnam by North Vietnam is utterly absurd." He said "it is precisely the United States which . . . is conducting a war of aggression in Vietnam. . .

"So long as the Nixon administration continues its Vietnamization of the war, the South Vietnam people and the liberation armed forces . . . will rise up everywhere to oppose it."

Porter offered a week's delay to respond to the U.S. demand for an end of the invasion. Thuy countered: "Is the United States ready to end the aggression, the Vietnamization, the escalation of the war? Is it ready to respond seriously to the seven-point plan of the provisional revolutionary government?"

Would Agree To Meet

He said if the United States could not give a reply at once, he would agree to meeting again next Thursday for a reply.

In Washington, the United States accused North Vietnam of "a sign of bad faith" by Hanoi's launching of a further offensive while the peace talks were resuming.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey, referring particularly to the new enemy assault against Quang Tri, just below the demilitarized zone, said:

"Put together, one can say no less than this is a sign of bad faith, that in our judgment it is outrageous, particularly in light of continuing public pressure that they (North Vietnam) were engaged in pressing for the United States return to the conference forum."

Porter read excerpts from President Nixon's speech on Vietnam in which Nixon said, "We are not resuming the Paris talks simply in order to hear more empty propaganda and bombast . . . We are resuming the Paris talks with the firm expectation that productive talks leading to rapid progress will follow through all available channels. As far as we are concerned the first order of business will be to get the enemy to halt this invasion of South Vietnam and to return the American prisoners of war."

The Viet Cong's chief delegate, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, said the "offensives and uprisings" of the "South Vietnamese people and their liberation armed forces" have revealed the "obvious and incurable bankruptcy" of the U.S. Vietnamization program. She said, "If the United States really desires to get out of Vietnam, it cannot substitute Vietnamization for negotiations."

Kwame Nkrumah

Ex-Ghanaian Dictator Dies

Dakar, Senegal (AP) — Kwame Nkrumah, one of the most bewildering of African nationalist leaders, died Thursday in Conakry, Guinea, at 62.

Once the dictator of Ghana, Nkrumah was deposed in a military coup in 1966. He had lived since then in Guinea, forever vowing to return to Ghana and regain power. He suffered from cancer and had been under treatment since last November.

Russians Have Their Own 'Beautiful People'

By VICTOR WILSON
(c) Newhouse News Service

Washington — While publicly boasting of its classless society, the Soviet Union privately supports in lavish style its own breed of "beautiful people," whose chief occupation seems to be doing fun things.

This highly unsocialistic information comes from John Dornberg, for three years (early '68 to late '70) Newsweek magazine's Moscow bureau chief, expelled as an undesirable journalist.

The "beautiful people," Soviet style, are, says Dornberg, "blessed with money and-or privileges that create a greater gap between them and Ivan Ivanov, Russia's Mr. Average, than the one between the John D. Rockefellers and the John Does of the United States. They are living proof that Communism works — for those who know how to make it work for themselves."

Here are thumbnail sketches of three members of Russia's "upper classless" as drawn by Dornberg in a new book on Soviet Russia today, "The New Tsars."

Mikhail Georgiyevich Motoriko, who runs a rich state agricultural-mineral region in Russia's Kazakhstan. Ten years ago Izvestia branded him a crook, Dornberg writes, saying he'd illegally purchased a number of homes, using state farm funds to pay for them. In 1970, however, he was presented the Order of Lenin, one of the nation's highest awards, for "meritorious service."

Motoriko also happens to be a first-class horse breeder, and he's well known among horse owners and bettors, Dornberg continues. Since horse-racing is the Soviet Union's only legal means of gambling, "Motoriko has connections to people high up in the Communist Party hierarchy in Moscow." They are links "forged by common interests at the hippodrome (track), thanks to which he is now solidly ensconced in the privileged ranks of the new Soviet elite."

Moscow Correspondent

Viktor Louis, Moscow correspondent for a London newspaper — the only Soviet citizen to work as a reporter for a foreign non-Communist newspaper. He translated "My Fair Lady" into Russian; publishes a motorists' guide to the Soviet Union; travels a great deal, sometimes to odd places like Taiwan and Israel; has an 11-room, three story home; a den, bar and sauna; a pool, tennis court; three cars, a chauffeur, and a household staff of five. Other sources have said Louis is reputed to be an agent of the KGB secret police.

Jozas Shimalinus is deputy district distribution director of the Lithuanian Consumers' Union, in Vilna. He's reputed to be the best and most gracious host in that area, entertaining friends, "business" contacts and party associates.

He lives in a home perched on concrete pillars beside a picturesque waterfall; can dive from his balcony into a crystal clear pool below; can "fish and watch television simultaneously." Dornberg remarks that if Soviet newspapers published gossip columns, Shimalinus would be known to associate with the "right people."

A rather unique point about Dornberg's three Russian "beautiful people" is that while openly or otherwise they have political jobs or connections, these are of rather low grade.

For example, if one is a member of the Soviet Union's Politburo, such words as "pay" or "income" mean nothing, since these officials have "open accounts . . . from which they may draw and spend as much as they wish."

He also reveals another little known but rather astonishing fact about things as they are in the Soviet Union which may help account for staying rich and beautiful once the status is gained:

"Unlike the rich and super-rich in other countries, the Soviet Union's elite can keep most of what they earn . . . Soviet income and other tax laws benefit the wealthy to the detriment of the poor," he writes.

"Even Soviet millionaires pay only the legal maximum in income tax: 13%."

Finally, while some Western nations tax inheritances as much as 91%, "the Soviet Union has no inheritance tax at all."

Brandt Barely Survives Challenge

(c) Washington Star

Bonn — Chancellor Willy Brandt Thursday narrowly survived the opposition's major challenge to his rule.

The opposition Christian-Democratic Union fell two votes short of the absolute majority of 249 needed to unseat the chancellor in an unprecedented "constructive no-confidence" vote in the Bundestag, lower house of the West German Parliament.

The total vote of 247 votes for the opposition's motion dramatically showed the precarious nature of Brandt's political leadership.

It means that the chancellor would have to continue to fight hard for any future legislation and particularly for next week's scheduled ratification of the peace treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland, the cornerstone of his policy of building bridges to Eastern Europe.

For the time being the danger was over and the stocky, 58-year-old Social Democratic chancellor beamed as cheering well-wishers surrounded him in the Parliament Building on the banks of the Rhine.

A total of 260 members of the 496-deputy legislative body voted in the crucial balloting. Ten voted against the motion with three abstaining. This means that Brandt's Social Democrats and most of their liberal allies in the coalition did not participate in the balloting.

Under German law, the task of toppling the chancellor rested solely on the opposition's ability to muster the absolute majority. Hence Brandt's supporters did not have to vote.

Despite the atmosphere of relief for the government, the vote constituted merely a temporary respite for Brandt, an anti-Nazi exile and winner of last year's Nobel Peace Prize for his efforts to reconcile Germany with her former foes.

The opposition is preparing another offensive next Thursday when Brandt's carefully negotiated treaties with Moscow and Warsaw come up for ratification in the Bundestag.

The opposition's motion to unseat Brandt and place its leader, 42-year-old Rainer Barzel at the head of Western Europe's most powerful nation came after a drop in Brandt's popularity and charges that he had concentrated on foreign policy issues while ignoring the sensitive domestic economic front.

Capt. Alene Bertha Duerk

Navy Names Woman As Rear Admiral

Washington (AP) — The Navy Thursday for the first time in its 197-year history named a woman admiral — Alene B. Duerk, an Ohio native who joined the service 29 years ago.

Capt. Duerk, 52, head of the Navy Nurse Corps, was nominated for promotion to flag rank along with 49 men. The nominations were approved by President Nixon and are subject to Senate confirmation.

The Navy's first woman admiral joins four other women in the armed forces who have been promoted to star rank in the past two years. The Air Force has two woman generals and the Army four, two of whom are now retired.

A native of Defiance, Ohio, Capt. Duerk joined the Navy in 1943 after receiving her nursing diploma from the Toledo, Ohio, Hospital School of Nursing.

LBJ Protege Bobby Baker Gets Parole

Washington (AP) — Bobby Baker, one-time protege of President Lyndon B. Johnson, was granted parole Thursday from a one-to-three-year sentence he currently is serving for attempted tax evasion and related charges.

The 43-year-old Baker was denied parole last December but the U.S. Parole Board announced Thursday he will be freed from the Allenwood, Pa., federal prison camp on June 1.

He began serving his sentence Jan. 14, 1971.

Baker, one-time Senate page boy who became secretary to the Senate Democratic majority, was convicted in U.S. District Court in Washington in 1967 on charges of attempted tax evasion, grand larceny, transportation of stolen money, fraud and conspiracy.

He began serving his sentence after his appeals, which eventually ended in the Supreme Court, were exhausted.

The Parole Board's recommendation on Baker came in the second day of a two-day closed-door meeting. The eight-man board, as is its custom, did not announce the margin of its vote on Baker.

GM Profits $651 Million

Detroit, Mich. (AP) — General Motors Corp. announced Thursday its first-quarter profits were a record $651 million, and compared with $610 million for the January-March span of last year.

GM said it had "no plans to adjust our 1972 model prices," although Ford Motor Co. announced it was rolling back prices on some models when it announced Wednesday that its first-quarter earnings of $252 million also were an all-time record for any quarter.

GM's first-quarter profits were equal to $2.26 a share, compared with last year's $2.12 for the first quarter. The old quarterly record of $636 million was set in 1965, when GM racked up it's record profit of $2.1 billion.

Sales during this year's first quarter were $7.7 billion, approximately the same as for the similar 1971 period, but up considerably from 1965's $5.5 billion.

Cleanup Slated At Branched Oak

About 30 Cub Scouts from Pack 29 will be at Branched Oak Lake Saturday afternoon to clean up trash and other unsightly debris, said cubmaster Birk Adams Thursday.

The activity is planned as part of the "Litter Day" designated by the National Scout Organization. The pack's sponsor is the Crestwood Christian Church, 8000 A.

Average Family Of Four Spends $7,214

Atlanta (UPI) — It costs $7,214 a year for an average American family of four to live on a low budget, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. They live cheaper in the South, skimp more in the Northeast and on the West Coast.

The bureau said the family, an urban working father, a nonworking mother, a boy, 13, and girl, 8, would spend $10,971 to live on an intermediate budget and $15,905 for a "higher budget."

The bureau said the higher the family income, the more likely it will own its own home rather than rent, will have more household appliances and use more services for a fee instead of using free community services.

The statistics, released Wednesday, show that Austin, Tex., has the lowest average cost-of-living of 41 cities surveyed.

Atlanta, Nashville and Orlando, Fla., had among the lowest average budget figures. San Francisco, Los Angeles, Boston and New York were among the highest.

Austin is the least expensive city in America no matter what kind of budget you are on. Living in the Texas capital on a lower budget costs $6,362, on an intermediate budget, $9,408 and on a higher budget, $13,600.

Although it costs more to live in Honolulu, Hawaii, ($8,990, $13,108, $19,700) and Anchorage, Alaska, ($11,09, $4867, $20,550) on any of the three budgets, San Francisco has the highest average cost for living on a low budget in a mainland city.

EVENTS
IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

President Nixon had the gift of tongues in his address on Vietnam to the American people Wednesday night. He was speaking to U.S. citizens but his words were meant, too, for the Chinese, Russians and North Vietnamese and they could hardly help but clearly understand him.

He might well have been talking more for the benefit of our adversaries in Vietnam than for his own people because he told his U.S. audience little that they have not known. There was nothing really new in his presentation — a setting forth of facts relating to Vietnam and a reaffirmation of our position.

The President stated that we "will not be defeated and we will never surrender our friends to Communist aggression." The significance of his remarks is found in his unwavering support of the present government and people of South Vietnam.

Certainly, he would not have made such a forceful statement for any domestic political reasons because he can stand to gain nothing politically from emphasizing such an attitude. For his domestic audience, he seemed to be looking for support from the American people, warning them of the consequences of a communist military victory in Vietnam.

Still, the entire situation there seems to have changed little. After the President spoke, Vietnam remained the same kind of political quicksand that it has always been.

The vital question remains as to which philosophy the most people subscribe and which way of looking at things more nearly parallels their own. Critics of the war undoubtedly have the more popular position and the more easier position to defend.

After all, there is no one who would rather be at war than at peace. It is easier to talk of humanitarian instincts and to condemn the killing of people and the destruction of a country than it is to carry forth with such activities.

But what is popular and what is easy are not the measures by which a president can act, if he intends to fulfill the obligations of his office. Certainly, Vietnam represents at least one area where Nixon cannot be assued of politics.

His position is the tough one to take, one that is sure to lead to continued criticism from his political enemies. And his position remains one that is difficult to destroy in the light of recent Vietnam developments.

As he said in his address, the movement of nearly all the North Vietnam regular army across the demilitarized zone for an attack on the south pretty well does away with the fiction that Vietnam is some kind of civil war. It never was a true civil war and has no such characteristics today.

The fact remains that in Vietnam the U.S. is seeking to deter the spread of communism through military force. It is disheartening that such force remains an important tool of communist ideology but those who deny it are simply closing their eyes to reality.

The President's position contains a calculated risk — that the South Vietnamese forces, with American air and naval assistance, can successfully defend themselves and turn back the new offensive from the north. If they cannot, then the U.S. determination not to permit the north a military victory becomes an alarming situation.

There would be two choices if the South Vietnamese could not turn the invasion back. Either the U.S. would have to abandon the country or we would have to again send our own ground forces into combat.

No purpose is served by speculating on which course of action we might take and the best hope now is that such a choice never has to be made. Hopefully, Nixon's Vietnamization program is working as he said in his speech.

The war has never really been popular and it has taken its toll in this country in many ways but the alternatives might have been far more damaging. A quick end to hostilities would be welcome but not an end at any price.

'What—And Give Up Show Biz?'

Maximizing Help For Aging

Election year generousity may pay handsome dividends for the elderly of Nebraska. Nebraska Commission on Aging Director Ron Jensen reports the prospect of obtaining up to $2.4 million or more in the next fiscal year for funding of state programs for the aging.

That would compare with $423,870 received by the Nebraska agency this year and $123,000 the year before. Even on the national level, the thrust of the program is patterned after Lincoln programs aimed at assistance for the elderly beyond that related to institutions.

Thus, Lincoln and Nebraska have served as a model in innovative approaches to this subject, including its home meals, low transportation rates for the elderly and handyman programs to aid those not able to do routine household chores.

This effort to assist the elderly in maintaining their private and independent way of life is a laudible one and it is encouraging to see the concept recognized and funded at the federal level. Such funding will be vital because there are endless ways in which life in one's later years might be maintained at a productive and satisfying pace.

So often, it does not take much to keep an elderly person in their home or apartment but the need is consistent and makes a public demand that entails financial outlay. Still, the benefit to the community in financial terms is far greater than institutional care, even at its best.

When institutional care is finally essential it serves a noteworthy purpose but it is wasteful and socially unacceptable to utilize such care when it is premature. It is premature when the elderly, through a wide variety of programs, can come to continue the private way of life that most of them would prefer. It is hoped that the additional funds coming Nebraska's way will find maximum use in program execution and minimum diversion into administrative procedures.

Muskie's Remarkable Collapse

Sen. Edmund Muskie today is basically the same man who four years ago was about the strongest running mate any presidential candidate could ask for. He is the same Democrat whose thought-provoking appearance on television the night before the 1970 congressional elections thrust him to the forefront early in the sweepstakes for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Why did the Maine senator's primary express derail, leaving him to forlornly await a call from a deadlocked convention that probably will not come? It was a remarkable political collapse that will not entertain one and only one simple answer.

Muskie was not brought down because of his emotional response to the vicious personal attacks on him and his wife by publisher William Loeb in Manchester, N.H., nor his angry assessment of the politics of George Wallace in Florida. It is more than the fact that Muskie revealed his human characteristics.

There are numerous theories making the rounds and each might have some bearing on the dissolution of Muskie's affair with the voters.

For one thing, Muskie likes to think things out and he asked people to place their trust in him while he made his judgments at a time when many people are fed up with trusting politicians and are easily susceptible to the ready answer.

Tom Wicker, the New York Times columnist, is among those that subscribe to another theory: no candidate can pretend to claim the vast middle ground of party ideology in a multi-candidate primary race. The one that does is eaten alive by the left and right.

The most widely-held theory is that Muskie misjudged his strength with the voters, believing it to be deep, whereas in reality it was well-distributed, but shallow. He lined up the big-name endorsements but forgot to organize the grass roots sufficiently to win a big one, such as Wisconsin. Looking back, Muskie believed his press clippings and George McGovern did not believe his.

How these factors combined to force him out of active campaigning probably not even Muskie understands for certain. But he was forced out and now is the longest of long shots for the nomination — a man who likely would have made a decent president.

Magrath A Positive Force

NY's Gain Our Loss

Whether we know it or not, Nebraskans will miss the man who was back east this week accepting the presidency of the State University of New York at Binghamton.

There are a lot of ways to describe Peter Magrath—C. Peter officially—and he pronounced it "magraw."

He's been called, in his four years at the University of Nebraska, ambitious, arrogant, brash, perhaps vicious at times.

To some members of the campus community he was a villain in the May 1970 antiwar demonstrations and afterwards in the hearings in the Rozman case.

And I suppose it was those events, more than any others, which kept his name off the list of candidates for the Lincoln campuses chancellorship after Joe Soshnik resigned.

Although I disagreed with his interpretations of some of the things that happened in those antiwar days following Cambodia, Magrath strikes me mostly as the kind of academician Nebraska ought to be looking for, and thus will sorely miss over the next few years.

He is, in simplest terms, an innovator in academic life who brought to Nebraska a fresh view of the state, its people and its potential.

It was his leadership that brought to the university such things as a quarter-million-dollar Ford Foundation grant for improvement of undergraduate education, for example.

And it was also his leadership, I believe, that brought to Nebraskans willing to listen to an easterner excited about this state's potential, a healthy view of what is here and of what could be.

A native of Brooklyn, he was trained in the eastern universities that I suppose Nebraskans are inclined not to trust.

But when he came here in 1968, he quickly became acquainted with the state and its attributes, and assumed the role of a proud adopted son.

I recall my first conversation with him a couple of years ago, when he told me he thought Nebraskans were too apologetic about their state.

He said he found the environment here refreshing, the cultural opportunities available, the atmosphere one which might support fresh views.

He had similar praise for the university and its students.

He told me at that time, for example, that he found NU professors generally more willing to give their time in service to the institution than was apparent in the eastern universities with which he was acquainted.

He was a strong supporter of more student participation in the workings of the university.

He was, as UNL's dean of faculties, a person quick to respond to the needs and questions of those who worked under him, I'm told.

One college dean once said that when he sent a list of questions to Magrath's office, he could expect a quick answer that candidly responded to whatever was at hand.

Magrath was also gutsy, I think, in ways that at times didn't win him any friends.

That was true of some of the matter surrounding the Rozman case.

And I imagine it was true outside the university when, for example, he courageously defended the controversial course on homosexuality when it was under fire from the regents and others a year and a half ago — and when others were more inclined to keep quiet.

He suggested at the time that NU should be commended, rather than condemned for the course.

And that came from the same man who had, on other occasions, tried to bridge the gap between this state's farming community and the university's liberal arts segment.

None of this is meant to say that Peter Magrath was the perfect university administrator. But I believe he was better than a good one here, and a fine example of the reason we shouldn't be content only with the viewpoints on Nebraska that Nebraskans can offer.

☆ ☆ ☆

It was a foregone conclusion that Magrath would leave when his name was not among those suggested to the regents for the UNL chancellorship.

I think Woody Varner would have preferred to have seen Magrath's name on that list, but when it wasn't there, Varner went after the best man who was.

Peter Magrath is ambitious, all right. Ambitious enough to want to try his hand at a university presidency. Ambitious in a positive way.

He told me a while back that he was looking at a couple of universities interested in him. And he said he was at first inclined to seek a position at a school with fewer pressures.

But he also said he had decided that if everyone went for the easy tasks, the problems would probably never be solved.

That's why Nebraska will miss Peter Magrath.

Letters To The Editor

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Recovery Inc.

Lincoln, Neb.

When Recovery, Inc. is mentioned in the Dear Abby column things begin to happen! What happens is that thousands of people write to Recovery's Chicago headquarters for information about this organization. These letters are answered in a general way and then sent to the local areas and districts for specific information about the meetings being held in each city and town.

A particularly flattering letter was printed in The Star this week, and we are eagerly awaiting a deluge of letters. Anyone who would like to visit a Recovery meeting is very welcome at any time or they could write for information to Nebraska Headquarters, 1601 Euclid Avenue, Lincoln, Nebraska, 68502.

The first group of Recovery, Inc., The Association of Nervous and Former Mental Patients, started in Lincoln ten years ago. (The organization will celebrate its 35th anniversary in Chicago in November of this year.) Since then leaders have been trained, regaining their own mental health through use of the principles of Recovery, and 20 groups now meet weekly to offer this help to any who wish to avail themselves of it.

Weekly meetings are held in North Platte, McCook, Ainsworth, Stuart, Hastings, South Sioux City, Norfolk, Columbus, Omaha, Lincoln and Beatrice.

A typical meeting includes both men and women, all ages, people who have been hospitalized for mental and emotional disorders, others suffering from physical ailments which are caused or aggravated by nerves. Others, as mentioned in the Dear Abby column, suffer from "preoccupation with symptoms, sleeplessness, overactive imagination, self-diagnosis, nervousness, etc."

Dr. Abraham A. Low, the late Chicago psychiatrist who founded Recovery as a research project at the University of Illinois Medical School, believed that there was "no hopeless case." His book Mental Health Through Will Training is studied at each Recovery meeting and contains the medical authority for the group. Each leader follows exactly the procedures set down by Dr. Low in conducting the meeting and in commenting on the examples that are given by members.

Plans For Stuart

Lincoln, Neb.

It seems the present plan to alter the Stuart Theater is not so much in the interest of the public, but is merely a scheme to make more money for the leaseholders.

In all the years that I have attended movies at the Stuart Theater I have never experienced any difficulty in either hearing or in seeing and I have not been uncomfortable while sitting in those seats.

One would think that Mr. Stuart would be both gratified and pleased that so many, many Lincolnites want to keep the Stuart Theater as it is. To me, it is both regrettable and ironic that others are willing to spend their time and money to preserve his theater for him and future generations while the inevitable deadline and outcome becomes imminent.

Perhaps Mr. Stuart is of the opinion that it is none of our business what he does with his possessions. Nevertheless, I hope he will keep in mind that it has been our business that has kept the theater going for more than forty years.

Deadline Nears

Lincoln, Neb.

How are we going to improve government and existing conditions with this record?

Across the nation as of March 1, the following were registered to vote: ages 18 to 20, 41%; 21 to 29, 48%; 30 to 49, 75% and 50 and over, 84%.

Isn't it time to junk our apathy and start being active citizens? Everything we have today is a reflection of our activity, or lack of activity at the polls. The best demonstration I can think of for a democracy is a ballot box demonstration. Regrettably, there are many who don't think the primaries are important.

How are we going to elect good people if we don't get them nominated? Those who don't survive the primaries are done!

This is the final week of registration for our primary election. If you register before 6 p.m. Friday, April 28th (extend registration hours this week), we'll see you at the polls.

In reference to Janice Kunasek, a blind girl seeking employment as a teacher (Lincoln Star, April 25, 1972), I can state that blind people can teach.

When my late brother-in-law, Roy M. Johnson, went blind from diabetes, the Lutheran college he attended in Northfield, Minn., got him a job teaching in high school at Peterson, Minn. He taught English and social studies for seven years before his death in February, 1969.

He was given recognition as a good teacher by the MEA.

Looking Ahead

Blair, Neb.

I predict that North Dakota voters will NOT vote to change their legislative system to the Unicameral form.

I further predict that the Nixon administration will continue to defy the mandate of Congress, by the use of federal funds to keep the SST project alive and viable. One more prediction, which is far too easy, namely, that if "Tricky Dicky" Nixon is elected to another term this fall, the Republicans will not have another chance at the presidency for 20 years.

What Inflation Really Means

NEW YORK — Maybe (just for the good of our souls, you understand) we ought to let Mr. Nixon off the hook in inflation long enough to face up to what it really means. And where the "poor underpaid, overburdened consumer" fits in.

He's the one who understands only that the price of pork chops is scandalous—and worries about it as he locks up the city house, packs the kids in the car, and heads for the weekend place at the lake. With Mama following behind in the station wagon, towing the speedboat.

Am I beginning to get through?

Because, when you get right down to it, that's what we call "the good life," and everything about the GL is inflated. Some folks even call it "progress."

☆ ☆ ☆

But ponder this:

Remember back when only the very rich could afford a house in town AND a vacation hideaway? Today you feel put-upon without a condominium in Florida . . . a ski lodge in the Rockies . . . or a winter nest on Palm Springs golf course.

And who ever builds a single-car garage any more? For the GL we need room for those two automobiles, plus a boat, a bicycle for every kid, a power mower, a food freezer, and maybe even a snowmobile. Or two.

Grandpappy grew up with outdoor plumbing, if he was lucky. Pop had a shiny, tiled bathroom. We have three or four per house, and like as not they've got two sinks per room.

Back there a man had his Sunday suit, and when that started to fray he bought another one and wore the shabby outfit for everyday. Male wardrobes now bulge with colorful threads for work, leisure and play for all seasons.

Time was when love-struck swains went a-courtin' with a mandolin. These days Sonny woos his chick with four-track tapes blasting from four speakers.

Kids who'd been good used to hope for an ice-cream cone or a soda once a week. Now you keep cases of goodies in the refrigerator, and that could just be one reason our kids are restless.

Pop liked to relax with a sarsaparilla at sunset. Our generation guzzles six-packs through endless bowls and super-bowls. (And that may be why Mama is restless.)

Granny battled summer heat with a bamboo fan. now we created instant winter throughout the house by flicking on central air conditioning.

We don't pack a lunch and go on picnics in the country any more. We pack a bag and grab the "picnic flight" to London. (Honest, that's the way one airline pitches it.)

☆ ☆ ☆

There's nothing wrong with bigness, according to Columbia President William McGill, that money wouldn't cure. New York could be fixed up just fine for $50 billion. What's wrong, he says, is that we have our priorities screwed on backwards.

Washington In The Spring Not Symbolic Of An Arid Political Age, Hollow Leaders

WASHINGTON — The beauty of spring in Washington is even more intense than remembered. The sudden heat, the blossoms, the parks set out with flowers, the acres of marble and granite gleaming in the sun: it all suggests, as it was intended to, the freshness and promise of a new country.

But the physical setting seems so incongruous now, the symbolism so awry. For this is a city not of promise but of cynicism. Its politicians offer no faith to arouse their country or the world. They appeal to a mean self-interest; their narrow aim is to defend their own position.

In the week of this sudden, life-giving spring an American secretary of state testified for hours about the war in Vietnam without the slightest sign of awareness that American bombs kill Vietnamese when they are dropped: kill people. Like a junior lawyer sent out to argue a hopeless case in whose framing he had no part, he fell back on pathetic attempts at banter or changed the subject when the hard questions were asked.

The secretary of defense whose planes have dropped more than one ton of bombs on Indochina for every minute of the Nixon administration accused the North Vietnamese of "marauding all over the countryside of Southeast Asia." and he denounced the Soviet Union for lack of "restraint" in aiding North Vietnam — aid that amounts to perhaps one-seventh of what the United States is to South Vietnam.

In this same week of spring there was an event, little noted except by those intimately concerned with it, that sharpened the sense of loss in Washington. It was a memorial ceremony at the Supreme Court for Justice Black.

Distinguished lawyers spoke of Black's passion for the Constitution, his commitment to the American ideal of an open society, his dedication to the court. But the afternoon somehow became most meaningful when it dwelt on Hugo Black's humanity.

A former law clerk to the justice, Louis F. Oberdorfer, read out to the assembled members of the Supreme Court Bar a tribute that they adopted as a memorial resolution. He spoke at one point of "The Greening of America," the book by Prof. Charles Reich of Yale, another one-time law clerk of Black.

Black had read the book, Oberdorfer said. In one passage Reich said dismissively that "Consciousness I," his term for the orginal American view of society, "believes that the American dream is still possible and that success is determined by character, morality, hard work and self-denial." Black wrote in the margin: "I still do."

Then Oberdorfer spoke of Black's relationship with his late colleague John Marshall Harlan, whom he loved despite a totally different constitutional outlook. Part of their disagreement was over Black's search for absolutes in the Constitution — formulas that would limit judges' power of interpretation. But Black often remarked, Oberdorfer said, that he would not worry about giving power to judges if they were all like John Harlan.

☆ ☆ ☆

What Hugo Black and John Harlan had in common — and earlier Felix Frankfurter, who fought so many battles with Black — was character. They were human beings of depth and life and committment; their humanity was more important than their differences.

On the day of the memorial to Black, the Supreme Court by the narrowest of majorities upheld the constitutionality of a loyalty oath that he would have abhorred, as he did all such forced expressions of belief. The dissenters quoted from a 1958 opinion of his:

"Loyalty," Black said, "must arise spontaneously from the hearts of people who love their country and respect their government."

It is those intangibles of love and respect that really matter in the relationship between a democraic government and its public. If they seem frayed now, it is not because the men who hold power are consciously evil or conspiratorial. It is because they are men without depth or commitment: hollow men, stuffed men.

Not so many years ahead, we are likely to look back at this time as we do now at the arid years of Harding and Coolidge. If we can. The trouble is that in the world of 1972 the hollow men are so much more destructive and dangerous.

Mother's Conviction Is Upheld

By United Press International

The Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday upheld the manslaughter conviction of an Omaha woman, which resulted from the death of her four-month-old son.

"When Gene Crawford Jr. died, he was nearing the third stage of malnutrition," the court said in its unanimous upholding of Diane Crawford's confiction by the Douglas County District Court.

The father of the child, born Aug. 27, 1970 and died Jan. 5, 1971, was serving a prison term, the court said, and thus the mother had the "sole care, custody and control" of the child.

And the court noted the statutes declare it unlawful for a person having care and custody of a child "to willfully and negligently cause or permit the life of the child to be endangered."

The death of a child resulting from a violation of the law is punishable as manslaughter.

Claimed Insufficient

Mrs. Crawford, 20-years-old at the time of the death, had appealed the conviction on the grounds the evidence was insufficient for a conviction.

But the court said the autopsy showed no cause of death other than malnutrition, and no abnormalities which may have caused that condition.

When he was taken to Immanuel Medical Center, the child weighed 7¼ ounces more than he did at birth according to testimony.

The court said 10 pounds was the normal weight for a child of that age.

In addition, the court said, evidence showed the Douglas County Social Services contacted the woman before the birth of the child and thus assistance was available had the mother applied for it.

Previous Record

The woman also contended the 10-year prison sentence was excessive. The court rejected that contention saying not only the manslaughter case, but her previous record had a bearing on the sentence.

Her juvenile record began in 1965, the court said. She was committed to the Girls Training School in 1967 and again in 1969. At the time the manslaughter charge was filed, she was on probation for burglary.

"The record fails to show that the sentence was excessive," the court said.

In other decisions, the court:

—Upheld the Douglas County District Court conviction of Lawrence Douglas Nero for feloniously entering a building in Omaha at night with intent to rob Richard Floen. He had appealed saying an in-court identification of him was a prejudicial error. The high court rejected the contention.

—Upheld the ruling of the Dakota County District Court that Don Walsh was guilty of unlawful and forcible detention of business equipment for nonpayment of rent by Marine Equipment and Supply Co. The court said "neglect or refusal" to pay was not proven.

—Upheld the Hall County District Court sentences of one year for possession and 3-5 years for dispensing peyote given to Gary Koch. He appealed from a guilty plea saying the sentences were excessive.

—Upheld the Douglas County District Court ruling in a mortgage dispute in favor of A. Richard Weiner filed against Robert Hroch.

—Upheld the Douglas County District Court conviction of Hubert Fincher for assault with intent to do great bodily harm and rejected a contention the 15-20 year prison sentence was excessive.

Tornado Numbers Rising But Deaths Are Declining

Although the number of tornadoes continues to increase annually, the number of deaths has been declining, which indicates that the warning system for tornadoes is effective, officials said Wednesday at a meeting with representatives of the news media regarding the severe weather warning procedures.

It was pointed out that once a tornado is sighted or a severe thunderstorm forms and its existence is known, then a "warning" will be issued by the National Weather Service for the area that may be affected.

The warning will indicate the location in which the tornado or thunderstorm was sighted, the area through which it is expected to move, and the time period the warning is in effect, officials said.

When a tornado has been sighted near or approaching the city of Lincoln the civil defense sirens will be sounded. There will be no "all clear" signal sounded, but the end of the tornado warning will be by the expiration of the time established by the National Weather Service Office or by supplementary information sent over the weather wire and communicated to citizens through news media.

Court Refuses To Set Aside Omaha Man's Life Sentence

By United Press International

The State Supreme Court, for a second time, unanimously refused Thursday to set aside the life sentence of Wardell Smith of Omaha for first degree murder under the post conviction relief act.

Smith was charged in February of 1965 with killing one Carl France during the commission of a robbery.

At his initial arraignment in April of that year, Smith pleaded innocent. He was arraigned again in May and at that time pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

In July of 1966, the man filed a motion to vacate the sentence under the post conviction act. It was rejected.

In March of 1970, he again sought to invoke the post convicton relief mechanism on the grounds he had insufficient legal counsel. The district court dismissed it and he appealed.

The high court, however, said Smith previously had ample opportunity to challenge his attorney's effectiveness and should have raised the issue in his first appeal.

The first appeal, from the 1966 refusal, centered on a contention he was not informed of his constitutional rights when he was arrested.

The court noted it has ruled in the past that once a first motion for post conviction relief has been judicially considered and denied, a second may be dismissed unless unusual circumstances can be proven.

And, said the court, "we see no reason to depart from that holding in this case."

Phillip Morris Reports Record Sales, Earnings

Richmond, Va. (AP) — Philip Morris Inc. reported record sales and earnings for the first quarter of 1972, but said it had applied to the Price Commission for a 2% across-the-board price increase for its cigarettes.

Joseph F. Cullman, chairman of the board, told the annual shareholders meeting that net income for the first three months of this year totaled $27,450,000 or $1.04 a share, compared with $21,447,00 or 87 cents a share for the same period last year.

He said consolidated operating revenues for the first quarter reached $486,188,000 from $412,983,000 in the corresponding period last year.

Youth Vote To Have Impact In University Cities

City officials attending the Big Eight Cities Conference here agreed Thursday that the university cities will see more participation in local politics by the newly enfranchised 18 and 19-year-old voters.

About 50 representatives of the Big Eight universities and their cities are holding a two-day conference to discuss mutual problems and concerns.

Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf told the city officials that University of Nebraska-Lincoln students have "not had too much impact on city elections here" due to the size of the Capitol City and the relatively small number of students who have so far registered to vote.

Mayor Schwartzkopf attributed the low student turn out to a city regulation calling for Lincoln residents to pay an $8 wheel tax on all automobiles.

"This has discouraged some of them from registering here," he said.

However, newly elected city council members from Ames, Iowa, related that Iowa State University students did have an impact on the last election. While noting that ISU students did actively campaign in the election, they pointed out that Ames' small population made the student vote count more.

Other city officials said that the recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling throwing out residency requirements in Tennessee will not only increase the number of the new voters, but, financially, universities stand to lose substantial revenues from students who previously paid the higher, out-of-state tuition fees.

Other topics discussed included sales tax revenues, the availability of federal funding, annexation and publically owned bus transportation systems.

Earlier in the day, KOLN-TV General Manager E. James Ebel told the group that Edutek's Institute for Education and Technology is "beginning to show dividends within the region" encompassing a four-state area.

Ebel, an officer of the Edutek board, reviewed the founding of the nonprofit corporation and the combined efforts of business, government and educational institutions that led to its formation.

He said Edutek was soliciting ideas from the conference participants and others in the region for projects dealing with use of technology in education.

The conference opened with a tour of the Nebraska Educational Telecommunications Center and the day ended with a dinner at Sheldon Art Gallery and a panel discussion on the arts.

Friday's agenda includes panel discussions on a variety of topics dealing with education and community resources.

State's Population Centers Continue To Attract Residents

Nebraska's population centers, such as Omaha and Lincoln, continue to attract more residents, new county-by-county population estimates for Nebraska indicated Thursday.

The 1971 estimates were prepared by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and indicate a statewide population total of 1,512,132, a gain of 1.8% from the 1970 U.S. census total of 1,485,321.

If anything, the Omaha-Lincoln area appears to dominate the state's population growth even more than it did in the 1960s, the researchers said.

Sarpy County, in the Omaha area, continued as the fastest growing county, with a 6.3% increase in the 15-month period between the April 1, 1970, census and the July 1, 1971, estimates.

Douglas County (Omaha) gained 3.5% and Washington County gained 3.2% to rank second and third.

Lancaster county (Lincoln) was the fourth fastest growing county, up 2.8%.

Continued growth in the Grand Island-Kearney-Hastings area was indicated by gains in Buffalo and Hall County equal to or in excess of the state average.

Previously, the Bureau of Business Research estimates were based on drivers licenses, school census, election turnouts, vital statistics and head tax count. The head tax has been abolished but researchers have added four new indicators to the formula — food tax credits, voter registration, school enrollment and social security beneficiaries.

Here are population figures in counties, with first figure reflecting the official 1970 census county, and the second figure showing the estimate as of last July 1:

NU Agronomy Club Honors Announced

David Paschold of Firth was presented the advisor's award in recognition of leadership in campus activities and Vernon Corman of Edgar was named the outstanding agronomy senior at the University of Nebraska Agronomy Club's annual awards banquet Thursday evening.

Paschold is the outgoing president of the Agronomy Club. He is suceeded by Walter Fick of Inman.

Steve Bartak of Merna was named winner of the $500 F.D. Keim Memorial scholarship for the 1972-73 school year.

Calvin Paschold, also of Firth, won top honors in the club's annual crops and weeds identification contest. He will receive an expense-paid trip to the 1972 annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy in Miami Beach, Fla., this fall.

Peggy Plank of Gothenburg and Fick were announced winners of the speech contest: Jean Dolan was announced the winner of the club's essay contest.

David Paschold Vernon Corman

Given honorary memberships for their contributions to agronomy were Robert Volk, director of agricultural activities, AkSar-Ben; Harold Gilman, extension conservationist at NU, and Howard Elm, executive secretary of the Grain and Feed Dealers Assn.

Veteran Dentists Cited By Dental Association

Omaha — Some veteran Nebraska dentists, including Dr. Lawrence Donahue of Omaha, who was inducted into the Nebraska Dental Assn.'s Hall of Fame, were singled out for special honors at the annual state association banquet here.

Five dentists honored for 50 years of practice each included Drs. M. C. Pedersen and W. I. Rotton, both of Lincoln, and Drs. T. P. Cogan of Omaha, K. L. Holmes of Kearney and (Mrs.) G. B. Rich of Elm Creek.

The association also honored three Nebraskans for special services: State Sen. William Swanson of Lincoln for assistance in adoption of the state's new Dental Practice Act; Dr. Frank Kamm, Blue Hill, for his efforts in promoting fluoridation of water, and Thomas Dorwart, Scottsbluff, the association's insurance counselor.

In placing Dr. Donahue, who has practiced 56 years, in the association's Hall of Fame, the delegates recognized his assistance in helping to solve a murder case in Cheyenne County.

Law Class Plans Silver Reunion

A silver anniversary reunion is scheduled Friday in Lincoln for 14 of the 16 graduates of the first regular law class to graduate from the University of Nebraska law college after World War II.

The dean of the law college after the war, Frederick Beutel, will be one of the guests. Beutel is now a faculty member at Washington University in St. Louis.

The group will meet for a luncheon and will hold a dinner Friday evening at the Nebraska Club.

Plants Planned

Newark, N.J. (UPI) — Wagner Electric Co. will build new plants in Tennessee at Sparta and Sevierville, President Frank J. Ehringer told the annual meeting.

Milk, Cream Receipts Set Record In 1971 Despite Production Decline

By The Associated Press

Although milk production was the lowest of record, Nebraska farmers and dairymen received more money from the sale of milk and cream last year than ever previously recorded, the state-federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported Thursday.

Income from milk and cream totaled $76,362,000, compared with $75,297,000 the previous year.

Milk production last year was the lowest since records began in 1924, but higher prices more than offset the decline.

Cash receipts from the sale of Nebraska eggs, chickens and broilers fell off sharply. The 1971 receipts amounted to $18.4 million, down 27% from the $25.3 million in 1970.

Cash receipts from the sale of eggs alone totaled $17.3 million last year, compared with $24.1 million the preceding year.

In another report, the division said stocks of the four feed grains — corn, oats, barley and grain sorghum — in Nebraska as of April 1 totaled 13 million tons or 5% more than on the same date last year.

The percentage of such grains stored on farms accounted for 74% of the total.

Corn stocks were up nine per cent to 308.4 million bushels, oat stocks were down less than 1% to 14.8 million bushels, barley stocks were up 18% to 1.1 million bushels, but grain sorghum stocks were down 12% to 41.3 million bushels.

Wheat stocks at 137.3 million bushels were about the same as last year. Rye stocks were up 36% to 2.6 million bushels, but soybean stocks at 9.4 million bushels were down 23% from last year.

Interim Study Committees Assigned

By The Associated Press

The composition of interim study committees set up by the 1972 Legislature to delve into a variety of subjects was announced Thursday by the executive board of the legislative council.

In some cases, the committees are a continuation of committees set up by the 1971 Legislature. Other committees include the membership of appropriate standing committees of the Legislature.

Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland, who died Wednesday, was listed on several committees. The report was released by the board before any changes could be made.

In all, there are 23 committees.

A listing of the subjects to be studied and composition of the committee with senators listed by their last names, chairman first:

Moisture Total Tops Average

For the first time this year, Lincoln's 1972 moisture total as of Thursday topped the average mark.

Lincoln has received 6.14 inches of precipitation since the first of the year, compared to a normal figure of 5.79 inches.

April rainfall for the Capital City totals 4.20 inches, over twice as much as the 2.05 average amount.

Light rains mixed with light snow in the west continued over most of Nebraska Thursday. And Friday's forecast calls for more of the same.

Latest precipitation received throughout the state as reported by the National Weather Service includes:

Funeral Service Scheduled For Sen. Holmquist

Oakland — Funeral services for State Senator Claire W. Holmquist, 65, will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at the First United Methodist Church in Oakland.

The prominent lawmaker, manager of the Holmquist Grain and Lumber Co. and active civic leader, died Wednesday in an Omaha hospital after undergoing major surgery April 7.

Service Set For James Holmquist

Omaha (AP) — Funeral services will be held in Omaha Saturday for James W. Holmquist, 70, secretary-treasurer of the Holmquist Elevator Co., and former president of the Omaha Grain Exchange. He died Tuesday.

Holmquist was a cousin of State Sen. Claire W. Holmquist, 65, Oakland, who died Wednesday.

Letter Seeking Dismissal Signed By All But One Faculty Member

A letter seeking dismissal of a University of Nebraska-Lincoln professor was actually signed by all but one of the agricultural economics faculty members not involved in a grievance case.

The letter, dated Nov. 30, 1971, was sent to Agricultural Economics Department Chairman Glen Volllmar some six months after Assistant Prof. Bert Evans filed a grievance charging Vollmar and five others with discrimination in employment matters.

The Star reported Thursday that the 13 signers constituted about one-half of the department's 25 members.

Vollmar said Thursday, however, that eight of the 25 hold what are called "courtesy" appointments, but actually work for the U.S. Department of Agriculture or other agencies.

Of the 17 professors who are eligible to participate in department matters involving such concerns as promotion, three — Vollmar, Evans and Everett Peterson — were involved in the case at the time the letter was written.

Thus only one did not sign who was not directly involved in the case, said Vollmar, who added that person "abstained" from signing it.

Although Vollmar did not identify that individual, it was apparently Loyd K. Fischer, who holds full professor rank.

Peterson was also named a defendant in Evans' complaint, as were four others — all administrators in the College of Agriculture.

A faculty committee which heard testimony in the case last week is currently studying the evidence presented there and in written and taped statements and other material.

Prof. Erwin Goldenstein, chairman of the committee, said the committee has asked for preparation of a full written transcript of the hearings.

Goldenstein said he hoped the committee might reach some decision on the matter before the semester ends.

The November letter was not in committee hands at the time of the hearings, and will not be considered part of the evidence, Goldenstein said.

Vollmar said earlier in the week that he sent the letter up through channels to the chancellor's office, but had not received a reply.

PTA Reaffirms Opposition To Aid To Private Schools

North Platte (AP) — The 50th annual convention of the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers reaffirmed its stand Thursday in opposition to legislation providing support for other than public schools.

In a statement at the close of the PTA's two-day convention, the congress said it opposed support for other than public schools because "to maintain and strengthen the public school system, federal funds for education must be appropriated only for publicly-controlled, tax-supported schools."

The PTA also said it would continue to work for full funding of state aid to education. A measure to largely accomplish that, LB448, was passed by the 1972 Legislature, but vetoed by Gov. J. J. Exon.

The PTA also approved two resolutions Thursday, one said that the organization would back legislation next year to establish a program of comprehensive health education in the state's schools. The other resolution said the PTA would support a bill in the 1973 Legislature to give juvenile courts exclusive jurisdiction of juveniles through the age of 17.

Officers elected for two-year terms Thursday were:

Mrs. Myron Hilgert, Norfolk, first vice president; Mrs. John Lichty Jr., Omaha, second vice president; Mrs. Harry Pedersen, Bellevue, district 2 director; Mrs. R. W. Hadfield, Lincoln, treasurer; Mrs. Henry York, Hastings, district 8 director; the Rev. Carl Reinhol, McCook, district 12 director, and Mrs. Elmer Kube, Norfolk, district 4 director.

Other officers were elected to two-year terms at the 1971 convention.

Hearings Slated For 2 Lincolnites In Store Breakin

Preliminary hearings have been set May 10 in Lancaster County Court for two men charged with burglary in connection with a Tuesday breakin at the Don-Mar Pharmacy at 1400 South.

Roger Allen Buss, 25, of 6347 Lexington, and Michael David Goeschell, 22, of 7701 Cherrywood Dr., were each charged with the burglary and bonds were set at $3,000 each.

According to police reports, approximately $500 and various types of drugs were recovered by police at the time of the arrest

Residency Ruling Hikes Registration

The steady stream of people who are making the last minute dash to register to vote in the May 9th primary is swelling as a result of a ruling Wednesday striking down the state's residency requirements.

Secretary of State J. Allen Beermann ruled Wednesday that Nebraska's residency requirements were invalid in light of a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision on a comparable situation in Tennessee.

Lancaster County Election Commissioner Bill Davidson said Thursday that he is seeking legal clarification of Beermann's ruling from the Attorney General's office.

In the meantime, Davidson said his office is abiding by Beermann's ruling and are now registering people to vote who ordinarily would not have met the residency requirements. Although saying that the ruling will have "some effect," he said he did now how much.

"We ought to get reassurance from the Attorney General that this (ruling) is the intent of the law," Davidson said.

"Personally, I favor the ruling since it gives that many more people a chance to vote," he added.

As a precautionary measure, Davidson noted that his office is keeping a record of all those who are now eligible to vote under the new ruling.

The deadline for registering to vote in the May 9th primary is 6 p.m. Friday at both the County-City Building and Gateway Auditorium.

Maenner Co. Reprimanded By Real Estate Commission

Omaha (AP) — The Nebraska Real Estate Commission voted Thursday to issue an order of reprimand to the Maenner Co., Omaha, and one of its salesman, in connection with a transaction in January 1971.

The commission cited the company and Arthur A. Bogard, a real estate broker, on a complaint that the Maenner Co. and Bogard "split a commission with an unlicensed real estate broker," Commission Chairman Allen Beermann, secretary of state said.

The complaint alleged that Bogard dealt with Louis Weiner, whose license had been revoked by the commission in 1967. Weiner had appealed but the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear the case, Oct. 12, 1970.

Bogard told the commission he was not aware that Weiner did not have a license when he dealt with him.

John R. Maenner, president of the Maenner Co., said later that during the time of the transaction referred to by the commission "we understood Mr. Weiner's license revocation to sell real estate to be under appeal by him. Therefore we found no cause to question his qualification to deal in real estate. Evidently we erred in this assumption and apologize for the error."

Maenner added that it was a small transaction "that completely satisfied both buyer and seller. There was no complaint filed by either party. The action taken today was initiated entirely the the Real Estate Commission.

CSL Sends Fees Report To Zumberge

The Council on Student Life (CSL) at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln voted Thursday to send a student fees report prepared by a subcommittee to Chancellor James Zumberge without specific approval by the Council, but including its comments on the subcommittee's recommendations.

Among the specific recommendations of the report was a proposal to combine tuition and activity service fees into a single amount to be referred to as tuition.

A group of architecture and sociology students from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln who are studying this semester in London, England, have discovered Nebraska Street in the British Capital. Recently they gathered there to have their picture taken. This is the third year that architectural students have studied for a semester in London as part of a program aided by the Lincoln architectural firm of Clark & Enerson, Hamersky, Schlaebitz, Burroughs & Thomsen. Sixteen students are participating in the sociology course in its first semester.

Religious Orders Said Changing To Meet Need

Catholic nuns have a mission in the areas of justice and peace, and their religious orders are changing to serve new needs of people.

Nuns are looking beyond traditional roles of teachers and nurses for new ways to be of service to mankind.

However, the Region XI Leadership Conference of Women Religious agreed in rountable discussion that nuns must bring with them the necessary expertise and competence to gain acceptance in new roles.

Some 40 superiors, representing 25 religious orders, were participating in a three-day regional conference being held at the Marian Sisters' Retreat House near Waverly, according to Mother Superior Rose Alice Althoff, O.S.B., of St. Paul, Minn., a conference leader.

The semi-annual conference involves religious orders in Nebraska, Minnesota, Wyoming, North Dakota, and South Dakota.

The conference's roundtable discussion on the mission of women religious in areas of justice and peace indicated varying views on how passive or active individual or corporate roles should be.

Discussion highlights included:

—"Being a religious person is in itself an inward commitment to peace and justice. Thus we are working in these areas in whatever jobs we do."

—Systems of injustice must be penetrated, and the nun, like any citizen, has the power and right of political responsibility, whether by writing a letter to a congressman or a more active role.

—The religious orders need to look for new ways to be of service to people. They should not move to new areas, but find new needs of people within existing fields of service in education and health.

—Nuns as individuals or a corporate body should not rush into new areas of service until they have the expertise and competence to gain acceptance, including politics.

—The needs of middle-class families should not be neglected as has happened in some areas where emphasis has been placed on work in ghetto or poverty areas, and sometimes without the necessary skills and experience.

Vietnam Veteran Gets Preference In Job Training

Vietnam veterans are to receive "absolute preference" for most job training programs funded by the U.S. Department of Labor and operated by the State Employment Service, according to an announcement Thursday from Gerald E. Chizek, State Commissioner of Labor.

Chizek said the Federal directive includes both classroom and on-the-job training components of the Manpower Development and Training Act. The purpose of the directive is to allow more job training opportunities to more Vietnam-era veterans as a result of the increasing rate of discharges from the armed forces.

Bankers Group Planning To Hold 75th Convention

The Nebraska Bankers Association will hold its 75th (Diamond) convention May 7-9 at the Cornhusker Hotel, with more than 1,000 bankers and their wives attending.

John W. Cattle, president of the association, and president of the Cattle National Bank in Seward, will preside over the three-day meeting.

Speakers will include Dr. Paul S. Nader from Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J.; Dr. Donald P. Jacobs, Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.; Sen. John J. Sparkman, Alabama; and Olympic champion Bob Richards.

Douglas Says To Accept Protests On Valuations

Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas recommended Thursday that the Lancaster County Board of Equalization accept protests on property valuations until May 10 even though the new legislation provides for a May 1 deadline.

Douglas said that because of the late date of the enactment of the bill, which was signed by the Governor March 29 and carried the emergency clause, the county assessor had already sent out notices informing individuals that they had until May 10 to file their protests with the board of equalization which was the previous deadline date.

In a letter to the board, Douglas said that he does see some legal problems in accepting protests after May 1 and until May 10, but that "I foresee more legal problems in refusing to accept protests after May 1, in light of the fact that notices have been sent out to taxpayers telling them that they have until May 10 to file their protests."

"Taking the situation in its entirety, it would be my recommendation to you that you do accept protests properly filed until May 10," the letter stated.

Dale Lund Elected President Of Higher Education Council

President L. Dale Lund of Midland College Thursday was elected president of the Nebraska Educational Television Council for Higher Education, Inc. (NETCHE).

Lund will succeed York College President Dale Larsen in the post.

Other officers elected at the annual meeting in Lincoln included Northeast Nebraska College President Michael Paradise, vice president of NETSCHE; University of Nebraska-Lincoln Chancellor James Zumberge, University of Nebraska at Omaha Interim Chancellor John V. Blackwell and Chadron State College President Edwin Nelson, all elected to the executive committee.

Jack McBride, general manager of the Nebraska ETV network, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

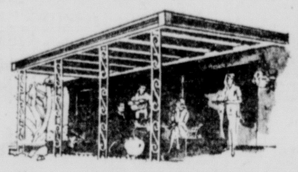

In other matters, the council approved an institution-supported budget of $63,155 for 1972-73, an increase of about $3,000.

NETSCHE is a nonprofit corporation of Nebraska colleges and universities which provides instructional television materials for its member colleges via the facilities of the state ETV network and the NETSCHE videotape library.

Poll Shows Nixon Leading Potential Demo Opponents By Sizeable Margins

By LOUIS HARRIS

If the national election had been held in early April, President Richard Nixon would have been reelected handily against any of the major potential Democratic opponents — by margins ranging from six to 18 percentage points if Gov. George Wallace were entered as a third-party candidate. Sen. Hubert Humphrey now makes the best showing when paired against Nixon nationwide, running five points better than Sen. Emund Muskie and 12 points ahead of Sen McGovern in a three-way for the presidency. Gov. George Wallace polled from 15% to 17% of the vote in various three way matchups.

While the Alabaman has never been below 9% in any of the 20 trial heats the Harris Survey has conducted since the 1968 election, his recent spurt is impressive. It is still not as high as the 21% he recorded in September of 1968, but clearly Wallace has been on the move.

Here are the major findings of a Harris Survey, conducted among a larger than normal cross section of 2,462 likely voters, from April 1 through 7:

—Richard Nixon led Sen. Humphrey by 42-36%, with Gov. George Wallace on a third-party line winning a substantial 16% of the vote. These results mark a one-point gain for Humphrey over his March showing, a four-point pick-up for Wallace, and a substantial drop of six points for the President in this matchup. Sen. Humphrey must now be viewed as the new front-runner when matched nationally against the White House incumbent, although Nixon retains a commanding lead. In a two-way race, President Nixon defeated Humphrey by 50-42%, an eight-point margin.

—Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine trailed the President by a substantial margin — 11 points. Nixon received 44%, Muskie 33%, and Wallace 15%. Since March, this marks a rise of three points for Wallace, a further decline of two points for Muskie, and a slippage of three points for the President. For the first time since last September, Muskie does not lead the Democratic field against the President and he has slipped a long way from his dead-heat position in January.

—Sen. George McGovern ran behind the President by a wide 47-29% margin — 18 points — with Gov. Wallace rising to 16% of the vote. There is little doubt from these results that as of early April Sen. McGovern was not yet a serious challenge to the President in a nationwide race. However, as last Monday's Harris Survey pointed out, fully 40-50% of the voters had not yet formed a clear judgment on the South Dakotan. Since March, McGovern picked up one point, Wallace three, and the President slipped six points in this matchup.

These results indicate a situation in which an erosion of strength for the President was matched by a similar slippage for the Democrat who had formerly been his chief contender, Sen. Muskie. Nixon has moved back toward Sen. Humphrey and Sen. McGovern more than they have generated momentum of their own.

—President Nixon led Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington by a thumping 51-21% — 30 points — with Gov. Wallace reaching his high of 17% in such a contest. In such a three-way race, Wallace might be capable of finishing second rather than third.

The gains registered by George Wallace between March and April have been won, significantly, outside the South. His biggest rises have been in the East and the Midwest, where he has gone up five points. Among key segments of the voters, Wallace has moved up among the 21-29-year-olds, the $10,000-$15,000 income segment, and among union members. Wallace has reaped more positive support during the presidential primaries than any of his rivals.

Here is the trend in the responses to this question: "Suppose in 1972 for President it were between Richard Nixon for the Republicans, Hubert Humphrey for the Democrats, and George Wallace as an independent, if you had to choose right now, who would you be for?"

Although President Nixon still leads his prospective Democratic opponents by a sizable margin, it now appears that his even wider margins in March were mainly the result of the euphoria following his televised trip to China. At the same time, the various matchups in the Democratic primaries to date and their varying outcomes seem to have made George Wallace the main beneficiary.

Bethlehem's Mayor Dies

Jerusalem (UPI) — Bethlehem's mayor for 17 years, Elias Bandak, died Wednesday of cancer at Hadassah Hospital. He was 61.

Bells of the Church of the Nativity, traditional birthplace of Jesus, tolled out the death announcement.

Bandak was instrumental in developing the tourism trade for the little Judean hill town.

That Stress You Feel... Means Danger

You have violent headaches. Or you break out in a rash. Or, your heart pounds violently. All these—and even ulcers, and t.b.—often are the results of emotional turmoil. Here are ways you can help your doctor determine what really is wrong with you. And what you can do about it. Eight fascinating case histories. Read "Your Emotions Can Make You Ill"—one of 39 articles and features in the May Reader's Digest

Condensed book for May: Jonathan Livingston Seagull.

There are thirteen great tractors in the Allis-Chalmers lineup with models from 6 to 16½ hp. And every one is loaded with features to make work more fun and give you a better looking yard in the bargain. For example: big flotation tires and a free floating mower housing take it easy on your lawn . . . a contoured foam rubber padded seat takes it easy on you . . . there's even a quiet-tone muffler to take it easy on your neighbor.

ALLIS-CHALMERS
YARDPOWER for LAWN LOVERS

Riding mowers built for people who take more than a passing interest in their lawn . . . designed to stand up to year after year of demanding service. Because after all a real Lawn Lover is inclined to mow a little oftener than the average person. The 8 hp SCAMPER riding mower features fingertip handling, shift on-the-go automatic drive and non-scalping mower. Be sure to see it and the new 5 hp SCAMP riding mower at your dealer.

Pamper your grass with one of five great STRIDER rotary mowers from Allis-Chalmers. Choose from 19" or 21" models . . . recoil or electric starting . . . hand-propelled or self-propelled models. All have easy-starting Briggs & Stratton engines and a grass bag comes as standard equipment.

Are weeds a growing concern with you?

Nowadays you can clear out lawn weeds easily and surely. All you do is fill a spreader with either of the fine Scotts products listed below and take a stroll over the lawn. Then sit back, relax, and wait for the weeds to gradually fade away.

To weed as you feed...

Simply spread TURF BUILDER PLUS 2, Scotts weed-n-feed. It goes right to work on dandelions, plantain, clover and most other common lawn weeds. PLUS-2 makes them gradually curl up and disappear—roots and all. At the same time it full-fertilizes your good grass — makes it grow greener and sturdier, filling in those places where the weeds used to be.

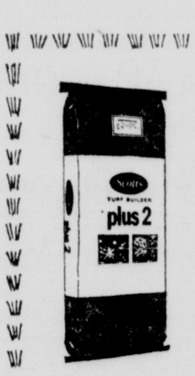

5,000 sq ft bag (20½ lbs) 7.95
10,000 sq ft bag (41 lbs) 14.95

To weed without feeding...

All it takes is an easy spreader application of KANSEL. It provides the same positive weed control as TURF BUILDER 2 — without the fertilizing. So if dandelions, clover and similar weeds are a growing concern, but your lawn doesn't need fertilizing, spread KANSEL now. It will take care of the weeds before they can crowd out any more good grass.

No-Quibble Guarantee

If for any reason you are not satisfied with results after applying TURF BUILDER PLUS 2 with a Scotts Spreader, you are entitled to get your money back. Simply send us evidence of purchase, and we will mail you a refund check promptly. Scotts, Marysville, Ohio 43040.

We use Scotts lawn care products on our lawns. We have here at our Garden Center lawns of Windsor and other fine turf grasses. Stop and see them. So, we can do more than point to a bag and say "here it is," because we practice what we preach.

POSTCARD by Stan Kallaplane

A blowy day in the Thames. About 10 in the morning a boat pulled alongside our four-berth cruiser. It wore the flag of the Thames Conservancy — the agency that controls the river's 136 miles of boating water.

The skipper was a red-faced man of middle years. He had a sweeping cavalry moustache and the voice of a drill sergeant.

He said: "Sorry to advise you that the river's in flood condition. Keep your lines slacked off as it falls. You can move in 48 hours. Shame to spoil your holiday, but can't be helped. Bloody awful lot of rain lately."

☆ ☆ ☆

I started a fire in the cabin-galley. Fortunately we are tied up on grassy banks across the river from Henley. From the cruiser we can see an oasis of warm pubs: The Angel. The White Hart. The Red Lion. The Carpenter is just around the corner. We will not starve.

The Thames swans went floating by — high or low water makes no difference to them. A man on a bicycle came down the towpath and collected 15 pence for the day's mooring.

He said: "There was some talk a few years ago about nicking their beaks. The R.S.P.C.A. lot. Said it injured the birds. But nicking's been going on for years, and so the movement lost."

☆ ☆ ☆

Swans are "property". Each year the young birds are taken up — swam-upping, it's called — and nicked on the bill.

Two ancient guilds are allowed to own and mark swans: The Vintners and the Dyers. Unmarked birds belong to the Crown.

"And a grand sight it is," said the collector. "The royal keeper of the swans and all the companies come down in robes of office in barges. And after they've marked the swans, they all go to the nearest pub and get drunk."

☆ ☆ ☆

A boat is a compact little home: Stove. Shower. Sink. Bathroom. Beds. Like all homes, it needs attention. As soon as we were grounded, the water pump went out.

I went across the bridge to the boatyard. "There's a little lever you press down," said the man. "It should start proper then."

I went back and pressed the lever. The pump jumped into action. At the same time the stove began to falter.

☆ ☆ ☆

I went back to the boatyard. "Change the bottled gas," he said. "There's a spare under the seat in the back."

I found the spare gas bottle. But I couldn't unscrew it. Back to the boatyard.

He said: "There's a spanner on a hook under the seat."

I found the wrench. I wrestled with the screw fastening. I couldn't budge it. Back to the boatyard — 15 chill minutes each way.

He said: "Which way are you turning it? Ah, that's your problem. It's a left-handed thread. Just opposite what you're used to."

I went back and installed the new bottle of gas. The stove worked. The water pump worked. Everything worked but me. I was worn out.

I went over to the Red Lion. I said: "Give me a large whisky."

☆ ☆ ☆

Though the move to stop nicking swans' beaks lost, England is full of militant groups to save other animals.

There's a League to Save French Horses. (From being eaten?) A Society to Save Irish Ponies. A Society Against Slavery — they save slaves in Africa.

There is a Royal Society for the Protection of the Birds.

The one with the most energetic members is The League against Cruel sports. The League is all against the fox hunter, all for the fox.

When the League hears about a famous fox hunt, they send members out to throw hamburger in front of the baying hounds. One lady member was present when the fox went to earth and the horsemen rode up.

With no hesitation, she jumped into the fox hole with the fox.

The papers recently reported that Mr. Alan Pinking, while out hunting foxes, was himself shot by a farmer who apparently mistook Pinking for a fox. (That man needs glasses!) The league will probably send him a medal instead.

American Can Plant Planned

Omaha (AP) — Nationwide Property Development Co., Inc. of Chicago, real estate development subsidiary of Swift and Co., will build a plant here for American Can Co.

No cost figure on the plant was available.

The construction plans were anounced by Gene F. Cermak, Nationwide president. He said the 50,000 squarefoot facility will house can manufacturing and warehouse operations, and will employ about 60 persons.

If you could taste Tennessee music, it would taste like Cascade Tennessee Whisky.

"Country music has a very special quality all its own. It's kind of hard to describe. Sort of warm and comforting. Rich... but in a basic, uncomplicated way. Cascade Tennessee Whisky is a lot like country music. I mean it seems to capture the mellowness of real country living.

They tell me it all goes back to the way it was first made over a hundred years ago, with special hill-country water and four different kinds of local country woods.

Why, they even sour-mashed the whisky at night so it could soak up the mellow rays of a country moon.

Today, they still make Cascade pretty much the same way. I guess that's why folks still say it tastes as mellow as moonlight. They're right you know. Cascade is just incredibly smooth.

It's real country whisky... and it doesn't carry one of those big city price tags either. Try Cascade Tennessee Whisky. I know you'll like it."

Muskie Booster May Switch Support

Following the invitation of Sen. Edmund Muskie, his Nebraska campaign co-chairman Richard Fellman of Omaha Thursday said he may switch his support to another presidential candidate prior to the May 9 election.

"I don't know yet," the former Second District Democratic congressional nominee said.

"I've got to decide whether I want to sit it out or whether I want to participate in helping pick a winner for Nebraska."

Fellman said he "wouldn't rule out" support for either Sen. George McGovern, Sen. Hubert Humphrey or Sen. Henry Jackson.

"If he had not released his delegates, I would have continued to work for Senator Muskie and voted for him May 9," Fellman said.

"But his release of the delegates reinforces in my mind the honesty of the man."

Fellman is Second District co-chairman of the Muskie drive and a national convention delegate candidate committed to the Maine senator.

In Lincoln, Muskie's First District campaign chairman Loren Belker said he still plans to vote for the senator.

"I can't see myself getting involved in a different campaign," he said. "I think I'll just go fishing for awhile."

Belker had headed Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh's Nebraska campaign prior to Bayh's withdrawal, then switched to Muskie.

Muskie's political decline "points up the need to overhaul our presidential primary system," Belker said. "The frontrunner is forced to spread himself too thin. We may need to consider a national primary."

Nebraska supporters of Humphrey were quick to react to Muskie's withdrawal. Both Belker and Fellman said they had received telephone calls from Humphrey aides, and Fellman said he had also talked with other rival camps.

William Riggs, national staff coordinator for Humphrey in Nebraska, issued an open invitation to all Muskie supporters.

"We believe the goals for which they strived are identical in essence to those goals espoused by Senator Humphrey, and should they now decide to join his cause, we welcome them as old friends and valuable allies," Riggs said.

Meanwhile, Riggs announced that the Humphrey organization has established a telephone network designed to reach 60% of the registered Democrats in Nebraska to boost the senator's candidacy prior to May 9.

Both Humphrey and his wife, Muriel, will campaign in Nebraska next week, Riggs said.

Mrs. Lyons Claims Demo Party Publication 'Unfair'

McCook (UPI) — Mrs. Phillys Person Lyons, one of six candidates for the Democratic U.S. senatorial nomination in Nebraska, charged Thursday that treatment of her by the Democratic State Central Committee has been "most unfair."

Mrs. Lyons charged that she was not contacted and invited to make a statement for the party publication "The Nebraska Democrat," recently.

She charged further that the publication had clipped to it printed promotion pieces for two of the six candidates.

"I would feel that an apology is due the four of us who were not included and I would suggest that the four of us be invited to have a mailing piece prepared and that state headquarters mail these pieces to the same people on the mailing list before the May 9 primary, at headquarters' expense," she wrote State Democratic Chairman Hess Dyas, Lincoln.

Peterson Reports $21,500 Received For Senate Race

The Wallace Peterson for Senate Committee has received $21,515 in contributions and loans so far in the 1972 primary campaign, according to a report filed this week with the secretary of the U.S. Senate.

About $19,300 has been expended, much of it on the communications media, according to the report prepared by Edgar Pearlstein, treasurer of the committee boosting the Democratic senatorial candidate.

Another report will be filed about a week before the May 9 election in accordance with the federal elections campaign act of 1971, Pearlstein said.

The report covers the entire campaign since last October, he said.

The Peterson campaign has received $14,515 in individual contributions. Three loans, totaing $7,000, have also been received.

Senate Candidate Searcy Depending On 3rd District

Democratic senatorial candidate Don Searcy of Kearney Thursday said he is "depending on the people of the Third Congressional District to carry me through the primary."

Searcy, the 1970 Democratic congressional nominee in the Third District, said he "knows more about the problems of the district than the rest of the candidates put together."

The district is composed of 61 western and central Nebraska counties.

If elected, Searcy said, he would work to exclude "many of the rules" in the present occupational health and safety act, assist the elderly, give agriculture priority consideration and "fight each and every attempt to allow imports of agricultural products for the purpose of holding down prices."

Searcy said he has the best chance of defeating incumbent Republican Sen. Carl Curtis in November since he is the only one of the six Democratic candidates who has run for national office against a Republican contestant in the last 10 years.

Blaze Destroys Boats; Damages Havasu Boatel

Lake Havasu City, Ariz. (AP) — Volunteer firemen say 22 boats were destroyed here late Wednesday when flames raced through a boatel, causing estimated $250,000 damage to the wooden, two-story structure and its contents.

Firemen said Thursday that the blaze began about midafternoon and took seven hours to extinguish. There were no reports of injuries.

Destroyd in the blaze, firemen said, were the boats, two minibikes, a tractor, an undetermined amount of furniture and other storage items. The building was a complete loss, firemen said.

Firemen said they would meet with the owner, Gale Marsh of Falls City, Neb., later this week. The cause of the blaze had not been determined.

Glebe Reveals 5-Point Peace Plan

Republican senatorial candidate Otis Glebe of Lincoln Thursday said he has a five-point peace plan which could secure "a thousand years of world peace."

Among its ingredients are prohibitions against a military draft and war itself and establishment of "an international peace-keeping body" supported by all nations.

Zumberge Gets List Of Six Candidates For Post

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

University of Nebraska-Lincoln Chancellor James Zumberge Thursday received a list of six candidates for the office of executive dean of student affairs.

The deanship has been vacant for nearly two years, and Zumberge put high priority on rejuvenating a once dormant search committee after he took office in February.

The search committee's work was called off last summer, after Joseph Soshnik announced he was stepping down as chief administrator of the Lincoln campuses.

The campus had met with little luck in attempts to name a new dean with the chancellorship uncertain.

Zumberge said he was awaiting a formal transmittal of the list of candidates from Prof. Wallace Rudolph, who headed the search committee.

But the chancellor said he had the list in hand and was beginning to study the background material.

The list includes five candidates from out of state and one Nebraskan, he said.

Zumberge said he may decide to ask two or three of the candidates to the campus to visit with the committee.

Ely Meyerson, director of housing, has been acting dean this school year.

On the matter of a search for a new dean of faculties to replace Vice Chancellor C. Peter Magrath, Zumberge said the faculty senate's liaison committee will constitute itself as a search committee, with the addition of two students and one administrator.

Magrath is leaving July 1 to become president of a campus of the State University of New York.

Zumberge said he considered finding Magrath's replacement as of "utmost importance," and he said he was pleased the liaison committee itself had decided to take on the search task.

"It's got built-in representation" and the "benefit of being in existence," he noted.

The liaison committee is generally considered the most prestigious of senate committees.

Zumberge also said Magrath's replacement will be given the option of finding an assistant to replace Walter Bruning, former assistant dean of faculties and now director of the centralized computer operation for all NU campuses.

2 County Board Candidates Back City-County Consolidation Study

The two Republican candidates for Lancaster County commissioner told the Government Research Institute board Thursday that possible consolidations of city and county governmental functions should be thoroughly studied.

However, Jan Gauger and William Swearingen, who are seeking their party's nomination for the post held by Democrat William Grossman, took slightly different positions on the consolidation issue.

GRI President Charles Pallesen noted that Grossman had previously discussed issues with the board.

Swearingen said he doesn't believe city and county government can be completely consolidated, but suggested law enforcement, legal departments and the engineering departments could be readily merged.

"Overall," he said, "there can be greater cooperation between the city and county.

Mrs. Gauger said she definitely favors a comprehensive study of county and city mergers to reveal their strengths and weakness, and criticized the present county board for failure to appoint a joint study committee.

"I will take no position on merger until I can see the proposed structure," she said. "We need to make a study, and then we can take a look at the strengths and weaknesses of consolidated government."

Mrs. Gauger also hit at the lack of a county personnel system while Swearingen said centralized county purchasing is needed to standardize bidding and purchasing procedures between the various county offices.

Mrs. Gauger said her primary concern as a candidate is "citizen apathy over county government, and lack of leadership by the county board."

Swearingen charged the county board is "being run by one man" in an obvious reference to Grossman.

Both candidates said they favored sharing of the City Council chambers by the city and county governing bodies.

Mrs. Gauger suggested the county board room is almost inaccessible to the public, while Swearingen said its arrangement is not particularly conducive to public hearings.

Five Politicians Will Join Walk For Development

Five politicians will join an estimated 2,000 persons in Lincoln Saturday for the 21-mile Walk for Development.

The walk is designed to raise about $30,000 for anti-poverty projects. About $13,000 will go to projects in Lincoln.

Participants will include South Dakota Gov. Richard Kneip, a stand-in for presidential candidate Sen. George McGovern.

Others are Congressman Charles Thone, Democratic senatorial candidate Wallace Peterson, Democratic congressional candidate Darrel Berg, and Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh.

Seatbelt Safety

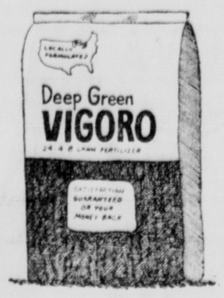

Chicago (UPI) — Safety experts say seatbelts lengthen the stopping distance of the body that is suddenly jerked during an auto accident. This means that instead of having all the force let out at the spot where a passenger's head hits the dashboard, the stopping energy is spread over a wider area.

Supreme Court Told Overtime Compensation Mandatory For Troopers

By United Press International

The State Supreme Court was told Thursday some kind of compensation for members of the State Patrol who work in excess of the required 50-hour work week is mandatory under state law.

The argument was made in a brief filed with the high court by attorneys for Tom Roth, a former State Patrol officer, on an appeal from Lancaster County District Court.

The lower court late last year denied Roth's claim on the Department of Administrative Services for $2,142 for overtime worked while he was employed as a state trooper from June 13, 1966 until April 30, 1971.

The brief noted Col. James E. Kruger, Patrol superintendent, testified as the trial he has not approved overtime because there are no funds for that purpose in the Patrol budget. He also testified he was unable to grant time off because of a shortage of personnel.

State law "indicates that the department head may have only one of two choices when he requires his employes to work overtime," the brief said. "(1) he may grant equivalent time off or (2) pay a sum equivalent to the hourly pay of the employe required to work the overtime it said.

"A strict reading of the statute would indicate that the employes should have been given either overtime payment or compensary time off," it continued, "even though the department lacked funds and personnel to permit this.

"It is our contention that the choice selected by the State of Nebraska, that of not paying for overtime worked or granting compensary time off, was unavailable."

Although such a compensation provision is not officially a part of the employer-employe contract at issue, the brief continued, the situation is covered by "quasi contract law." Under those principles, it said, there is generally "an implication of a promise to pay for valuable services rendered with the knowledge and approval of the recipient, in the absence of a showing to the contrary, the brief said.

Referring to a side issue in the case, the attorneys said Roth has the right to sue the state through the Department of Administrative Services because the district court in the county where the capitol is located "has the authority to hear cases in which the Department of Administrative Services has in whole or part rejected a claim properly filed against the state."

Game Unit Adopts Legislative Salary Guidelines

By United Press International

The State Game Commission, banking on a promise a deficit appropriation would be granted to it next year, unanimously adopted Thursday legislative salary guidelines including a special $50 hike for each game warden.

The 1972 session of the Legislature, in the master operations budget, issued a guidelines which said all state employes should get at least a $300 annual pay increase, with not more than $600, effective July 1.

The specific formula recommended in the intent section of the measure was 2.5% plus $200 per employe, with the top and bottom limits.

The bill also carried a requirement that game wardens be given an additional $50 each a year above whatever their increase would be under the formula for all government employes.

But the commission was informed by Director Willard Barbee that would mean a projected salary deficit of just over $7,000.

He said, however, he had assurances from Sen. Loran Schmit of David City, chairman of the Agriculture and Recreation Committee, and from Sen. William Swanson of Lincoln, chairman of the Committee on Committees, that they would support a deficit appropriation.

Commissioner Bruce Cowgill of Silver Creek, noting the lawmakers strongly indicated they wanted salary guidelines followed this year, said "we can't really deviate from or segment the bill."

Chairman Francis Hanna of Thedford also said the commission has gone the deficit appropriation route in the past at funding levels "that make this look like peanuts."

In view of legislative intent, plus the written promsies from the senators, he said "we have a much better chance" of getting the action affirmed by the Legislature than the commission did in other years.

The salary discussion, and the subsequent adoption of the policy on a motion made by Commissioner Don Brown of Omaha, came after a delegation from the Nebraska Conservation Officers Association appeared before it.

Don Schaepler, a game warden from Arapahoe, said the association wanted to know the status of the policy and in view of the projected deficit, whether it would be carried out.

In other business, the commission directed extensive work be done in the preparation of a lease with the Devils Nest Development Corporation.

Commissioner Jack Obbink of Lincoln, in making the motion directing more work be done, said long-range development plans should be specifically spelled out in the terms of the lease.

The commission had before it a draft of a lease, but Barbee said he didn't think it would gain approval from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Nebraska Giving Montie Montana Another Chance To Set Up Show

By The Associated Press

Montie Montana Jr. is being given another chane to set up a wild west show in North Platte this summer, State Economic Development Director Stan Matzke said Thursday.

Montana, whose effort last summer ended the bankruptcy, has been given a June 1 deadline to raise funds and backing for another try at the show at the state's wild west arena at North Platte, Matzke said.

The decision was the result of a meeting in North Platte between Montana, Matzke and other state officials, and representatives of a local North Platte committee set up to oversee use of the arena.

Montana's show, billed as a recreation of Buffalo's Bill Wild West Show, opened in North Platte last summer and then ran into financial difficulties when Montana took it on the road.

The show closed in Los Angeles and Montana and the parent corporation, Buffalo Bill Wild West Inc., were declared bankrupt earlier this year in Los Angeles.

However, Montana has moved to North Platte and will attempt to find financial backing for another corporation which will hire him to manage the show, Matzke said.

Should Montana set up another show, it will remain in North Platte and will not be taken on the road, Matzke said.

Matzke said the dates for this year's show have been tentatively set for July 29 to Aug. 27. If the show is successful, consideration will be given to extending the 1973 run to six weeks, according to Matzke.

In support of Montana's efforts to find financial backing for a new show, Matzke said he is writing a letter for Montana "indicating our interest in the show and our confidence that it can be successful."

Montana's new show would have approximately the same format as the 1971 show, Matzke said.

"I'm confident that with the cooperation of the people from North Platte and our department the show can be a success," he said.

Cornhusker Yearbook Apparently Doomed

Bowing to financial realities, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln yearbook, the Cornhusker, will succumb after the 1972 edition.

That was the decision this week of the campus' publications committee headed by Prof. James Horner of the agricultural education department.

Horner said the final copy's sales will barely reach 2,000, if that many, and he said the yearbook has lost $3,000 to $4,000 or more every year for several years.

The book has been sold on a subscription basis.

Horner said the committee investigated the possibility of going to a fee-card basis, giving students a chance to check a preference when they pay their tuition.

But he said Chancellor James Zumberge was reluctant to put the university into the business of collecting more fees for auxiliary enterprises.

The committee, said Horner, surveyed the student body and then held a poorly attended hearing on the future of the Cornhusker to gauge student interest.

The last copy will be a single, hardbound book.

The book apparently dates back to 1884, but officially was named the Cornhusker in 1906.

Mob Fired On

New Delhi (UPI) — Police fired on a mob of rock hurling workers near Bombay, killing seven persons and wounding six others, the Press Trust of India reported. Ten police constables were injured in the incident, which occurred in a steel workshop at Abarnath, about 20 miles north of Bombay, PTI said.

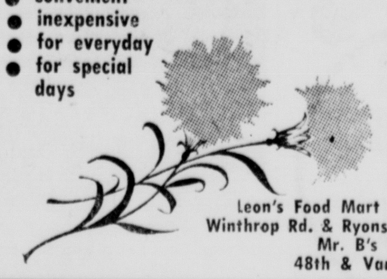

Wholesome colored comics, feature stories with plenty of pictures and the big entertainment section are a few reasons why nearly everyone reads the "Sunday Journal and Star."

MISS JOLEEN SOVEREIGN

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Sovereign of Hastings, formerly of Lincoln, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joleen, to Richard R. Masten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Masten of Grand Island.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, June 17, and the ceremony will be solemnized at the Epworth Methodist Church in Lincoln.

Mr. Masten attended the Central Nebraska Technical College in Hastings, and now is associated with Lloyd and Herb's Tune-Up shop in Grand Island.

TOWN TALK

Give a weekend two very popular brides-elect, — plus this and that, and you have a busy Friday-to-Sunday calendar.

But we're going to begin this particular weekend activity with Thursday and its two courtesies for Miss Mary Catherine Freeman, whose marriage to Terance Boren will be solemnized on May 13.

On Thursday morning Mrs. Dale Bruggeman complimented Miss Freeman when she entertained at a 9:30 o'clock coffee and shower at her home. The guests also were asked to bring their favorite recipes—each to be gift-wrapped in plain paper — no bows. As a matter of fact the gift packages were without bows when they arrived at the party where they were ornamented with bows of invitation-matching with pink and white checked gingham which Mrs. Bruggeman had made.

The second Thursday party was the kitchen shower for which Mrs. Carl Clopeck was hostess at her home, and on Saturday morning Miss Freeman will be the incentive for a 10:30 o'clock coffee and bathroom shower for which Mrs. James Pittenger will be hostess.

And on Sunday evening Mrs. Allen T. Korsmeyer will pay prenuptial courtesy to the bride-elect and her fiance when she is a dinner hostess at the Lincoln Country Club.

* * *

Saturday and Sunday also are busy days for bride-elect Miss Deborah Howell, who has a May 20 date for her marriage to John Guenzel.

We already have mentioned numerous courtesies for Miss Howell which began earlier this month, but we have more — On Saturday evening, for instance, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Damrow will be a dinner host and hostess at The Knolls in courtesy to Miss Howell and Mr. Guenzel. The guest list will include only the members of the families.

And on Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ganz and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wagener will honor the soon-to-be bride and her fiance when they entertain at a brunch at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ganz in Alvo. The members of the bridal party will be included in the guest list.

Naturally there have been and will be more parties for both Miss Freeman and Miss Howell, and we'll tell you about them another day.

Alpha Chi Omega Supports Camp

Camp Easter Seal has been the beneficiary of many organizations which have devoted certain whole-hearted efforts toward raising funds for the outstanding project.

The Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae Association ranks among the groups which have helped to support the camp — and the alumnae will continue their efforts on Saturday and Sunday, April 29 and 30, when they sponsor a garage sale to be held at the home of Mrs. Stan Kniffin, 3010 So. 26th St.

But, rain or shine, there always is much to be done in preparation for any kind of fund raising project — and garage sales are no different.

The alumnae spent Wednesday gathering all of the sale merchandise in the Kniffin garage — and the task of pricing the varied items took place on Thursday.

Musical Forum

It will be an interesting evening for the members of the Musical Forum when they meet at 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening, April 28, at the home of Mrs. Robert Murphy.

The program will be music and it will begin with a paper on "Our Early Modern Composers" which will be read by Miss Etta Blasdel. As the biographical sketch of each of the composers is completed his music will be presented by a group of vocalists and instrumentalists including Mrs. Albert Francke, Arthur Henderson, John Horstman, Donald Little, Robert Murphy, Frank Paul and Miss Ruth Selders.

Our Town

Footlights & Canvas

BY PHYLLIS WOOLLEN

Good morning:

While school children anxiously count the days to summer vacation, mothers may find themselves confronted with empty thoughts on how to fill the many vacant hours for their offspring. Summer boredom can be a strenuous affair without a bit of forethought.

Summer can, however, provide an ideal opportunity to broaden the horizons of youngsters in the area of the arts. No art can be isolated to a nine-month study period and forgotten over the three-month vacation without some loss. For this reason, we encourage summer art programs, and there are many within the City of Lincoln that can be explored.

There are, in addition, special art programs alll over the country for the more enthusiastic art student. One program in particular that has come across our desk is a three-week course for ballet students to be conducted by Ballet West in Aspen, Colo. This in-residence training course, to be held from July 2 to July 22, is limited to 100 students who are 12 years old or older and have a minimum of four years of ballet training.

Excellent tutelage will be offered by William F. Christensen, artistic director of Ballet West, and Bene Arnold, ballet mistress. The curriculum includes variations from full-length ballets, ethnic dances, jazz studies, pantimine, history, makeup, styling, films, discussion groups and seminars. Further information can be obtained by writing Ballet West, Box 11336, Salt Lake City, Utah.

This is just one of the summer art programs being offered, across the country, and parents and children who might be interested in programs in the arts should begin now to submit applications and make this summer a special adventure.

Now, for your further intertainment:

AS DREAMS ARE MADE OF . . . "The Tempest", one of Shakespeare's last plays and one of his finest poetic comedies, has been chosen by the University of Nebraska Theatre as its last production of the season. Directed by Dr. William Morgan, this romantic tragi-comedy will open at Howell Theatre on Friday, May 5, with performances on May 6, and May 8 to May 13. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

A TASTE OF SUMMER . . . The Nebraska Wesleyan University School of Music has a full schedule planned for the next week or so. On Sunday, April 30, an outdoor Pops Concert will be presented at 4:30 p.m. on the Campus Center Terrace by the Nebraska Wesleyan University Band. On Tuesday, May 2, four Nebraska Wesleyan University students will be soloists with the University Symphony Orchestra in its final concert of the season at 8 p.m. in O'Donnell Auditorium. Art and music will join forces on Sunday May 7, as the final Elder Gallery Concert is held at 3 p.m. in conjunction with a display of art by NWU senior art students.

ON THE STRING . . . Miss Trish Haynes, a senior puppeteer, will hold the strings on "Peter Pan" as it opens on the mainstage of the Lincoln Community Playhouse on Saturday, May 6. Directed by Jim Ogden, the play is an adaptation by Puppet Theatre director Lee Ridge. Performances are sheduled for 2:30 matinees on Saturday and Sunday, May 6 and 7, and at 7:30 on May 5 and 7.

ALL IN CONERT . . . The University of Nebraska Coliseum will set the stage for this weekend's performance of the "Carmina Burana" by three guest soloists, the Choral Union and University Symphony Orchestra. Directed by Emanuel Wishnow, the "Carmina Burana" was created by Carl Orff, a contemporary composer and classical scholar and musician. Guest artists will be Chester Ludgin, baritone with the New York State Opera Company; Doris Ganz, soprano; and Gary Lamb, tenor. The program will begin at 8 p.m. on Sunday, April 30.

NEW HOME NEXT SEASON . . . The Lincoln Symphony Orchestra has announced its program for next season when the concerts will be held in a new home in the Wesleyan University Fine Arts Center. Guest artists will include Zara Nelsova, cellist; Alicia De Larrocha, pianist; and the Bach Aria Group. The season will include six concerts under the direction of Leo Kopp, conductor, and tickets are now available through Mr. Louis H. Babst, 1002 Sharp Building.

CURTAIN CALL . . . "Rumpelstiltskin" . . . the classic children's tale will be presented tonight and tomorrow night, April 28 and 29 at 7 p.m., and on April 30 at 2 p.m.

. . . "THE EMPEROR'S TUNE," . . . a musical for children, will be the final production by Theatre Arts For Youth (TAFY) this season. Performances will be held April 28 at Lincoln Southeast; May 3 at Whittier; and May 4 and 5 at Lincoln Northeast. Performance time is 4 p.m. except Thursday at 7:30.

. . . SHELDON ART GALLERY . . . The annual student exhibitions open May 2.

Madonna Auxilary Installs Officers

An active auxiliary can do so much for a hospital or nursing home — the members often help to 'man' the gift shops, raise funds for the facilities, and spend time chatting with patients or residents.

Therefore, when election time rolls around, it is vital that a capable and dedicated slate of officers is selected.

The Auxiliary of the Madonna Professional Care Center held its annual meeting and election of officers a few days ago — and the president's gavel was presented to Mrs. Walter Henrion.

Other newly-elected auxiliary officers include Mrs. Allen Graves, vice president; Mrs. Ralph Cuca, secretary; and Mrs. Charles Noren, treasurer.

Guest speaker for the annual meeting was Jack Stiles, administrator at St. Elizabeth Community Health Center.

Youth Concert

Three young Lincoln musicians will depart from Lincoln on Monday, May 1, for Washington, D.C., where they will rehearse with the American Youth Performs program in preparation for the seventh annual national concert to take place in the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts on Tuesday, May 9.

The Lincoln representatives in the program will be East High School students Miss Tracy Hansen, cellist, and Miss Margaret Contras, vocalist; and vocalist Vaughn Fritz who attends Northeast.

The American Youth Performs, Inc., is the American Airlines-sponsored national youth orchestra and chorus, and is a Foundation dedicated to gain recognition of talented youth by business and government interests.

Students from 200 cities in the United States, Mexico, and Puerto Rico, will compose the 110-piece orchestra and 120-member chorus which will rehearse under the conductorship of Louis Campiglia, Paul Traver, and guest conductor Morton Gould.

Miss Tracy, Miss Contras, and Mr. Fritz were selected in January by the Nebraska Music Educators Association and submitted performance tapes to the foundation.

CFG Plan Clean-Up Day

We don't know for sure, of course — we can only guess that the Lincoln Camp Fire Girls are keeping their fingers crossed, and are Chanting "Rain, rain go away — come back again another day."

Rain today won't cause too many problems, but Saturday is 'Clean-Up' day, and doubtless will be on schedule rain or no rain.

The Camp Fire Girls may devote all day, part of the day and any time of day to the project.

ABBY: Let teenagers apply for job

DEAR ABBY: I own my own business, and I hire many high school students for part-time work. Abby, you cannot imagine how many parents call me and ask if I have a job for Mary or Billy!

If Mary or Billy want to work, THEY should do the asking. Having Mamma or Dad ask for them doesn't say much for their child's initiative.

I feel it is important for young people to work, and I give as many of them a break as I can, but I have made it a policy NEVER to hire anyone whose mother or father calls and asks me to put their child to work. If a boy or girl is old enough to draw a salary, he is old enough to ask for a job.

I am sure other employers share my viewpoint. And if this letter helps to wake up just one teen-ager, it will have been worth the time I took to write it.

EMPLOYER

DEAR EMPLOYER: I'm glad you wrote. I'm sure you woke up more than just one teen-ager. (And a few parents, too.)

DEAR ABBY: Last January my nephew (I'll call him George) married a girl I'll call Martha. Although we all live in the same town, George didn't bring Martha around to meet any of the family, and the first time most of us saw her was at the wedding.

After two months of marriage, George and Martha separated.

Everyone in the family gave them very nice and expensive wedding gifts, all of which Martha thinks she is entitled to keep.

Don't you think that because it was such a short marriage George should keep everything they got from HIS side of the family, and Martha should keep everything from HER side?

Please print what is proper in your column, because Martha never misses it.

GEORGE'S AUNT

DEAR AUNT: It is proper under the circumstances that all gifts be returned.

on a tour of the shops

Gateway Shopping Center is growing by leaps and bounds and, as we embarked on our tour of the shops this week, we quickly learned to appreciate the shelter from the drenching rains, which is provided at the mall. While walking through the enclosure, shoppers are exposed to the blaring sounds of drilling, pounding and construction equipment, but it all becomes tolerable as they witness the new exciting shops opening and visit them for the first time.

AT ART WORLD

Gateway's Art World and the earlier than planned opening flung wide their doors on April 19, prompted by eager clientele. Also before the official opening, the store had special previews for the Lincoln Artist Guild, and the art teachers in the Lincoln schools.

A unique feature at Art World is a separate gallery where, currently, work done by the employees is being displayed. In the future, however, the gallery area will be devoted to private shows, and classes on crafts.

At Art World they have supplies for every imaginable craft. For example, those who love to make candles, or are learning the art, will find complete kits at Art World or supplies such as molds, wax and wicks that can be purchased separately.

Another craft which is gaining in popularity is crocheting with beads to make jewelry. No matter what color, shape or size of bead you desire you will find them at Art World.

Among other special items at the store is a library of books on crafts and art in addition to drafting equipment, custom picture framing, macrame supplies, bottle and jug cutters, and items in unfinished wood, such as frames, plaques, salt and pepper shakers and recipe boxes.

AT GATEWAY WESTERN

Nearly all passers-by are lured into Gateway Western has habits, hunting caps, which is centered with a four wheeled buggy, strewn with straw as though it had recently been removed from storage in a barn. Local owners have appropriately displayed items for equestrian-minded people.

At Gateway Western they stock a wide selection of two well-known lines of felt or straw hats. The most popular style for the ladies is the "Arena" which is shown in a variety of colors. For the men they provide the "Bulldoggers," "Top Rail," "Fort Worth," and two new styles fashioned of shag felt or crushable straw.

The three-week-old business also boasts of having five brands of boots and moccasins for the whole family, two brands of jeans in all sizes and square dance apparel which includes can-can petticoats, dresses and dancing slippers.

For those who like English style riding, Gateway Western has habits, hunting caps, boots, jodphurs, breeches and saddles. Regular western riding gear includes saddles, horse blankets, lead ropes, harnesses and bits, not to mention the Horse Health Center.

In their unique gift department this new shop has many western gift items for your selection.

AT THE GOLDEN CARROT

The health food store is practically the only recourse for those who have become concerned about the increasing use of chemicals and fertilizers used for growing and packaging foods, and other essentials in day-to-day living.

At the Golden Carrot, we found natural vitamins — and much, much more.

The focal point of the shop is the peanut butter machine where peanuts, and only peanuts, are ground right before your eyes — and, in this tasty product, there is no added oil, fat, or sugar.

Along the cosmetic line, we learned that those displayed in the Golden Carrot are made from real fruit with no harmful preservatives or chemicals. Some of our finds included strawberry cleanser, lipstick made from honey and bees wax, and cucumber, lemon and strawberry soap. Also, to be seen were loofa mitts, which are vegetable sponges used for the bath.

In the food line are stone ground flour and corn meal, organically raised prunes and carrots, salad dressings, yogurt — including the solid or drink varieties made of fresh fruit, yogurt and honey — and organically raised beef, as well as all sorts of gourmet foods, teas, unrefined oils, candies and cakes. The cakes are made without wheat flour and sugar — but with honey and whole wheat flour. flour.

In other words, all of the foods found in The Golden Carrot are like those used a long, long time ago — before the days of fertilizers and insecticides.

AT LORJEAN'S

Following the policy of providing the "personal touch," the intimate apparel found at Lorjean's is custom fitted — and the personnel in the new shop includes certified fitters.

Aside from carrying the 10 outstanding lines of lingerie and foundation garments, the shop provides an extra service of fitting both men and women with back supports and aiding the woman who has had a masectomy.

On the racks, we found robes, gowns, and pajamas in the favorite pastel shades as well as the more contemporary 'hot' color combinations.

We also liked the bikini sets — both the swimwear variety and the bra and bikini pant ensembles for use as undergarments. And if you are wanting something attractive, as well as practical such as Scuffs, peignoir sets, surgical stockings, and slips and panties you can find them at this colorful boutique.

By the way, Lorjean's will be featured, along with two other Nebraska shops, in the May issue of Redbook.

Engagement Announced

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Tuch of Niobrara announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Rosemary Gayle, to Dana L. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray A. Davis of Nebraska City.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, June 3.

Miss Tuch is careering with the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co., in Lincoln.

Mr. Davis, who has completed a three-year tour of duty with the U.S. Marines, is associated with the Lincoln Office Equipment Co.

BRIDGE

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump and North leads the six of hearts. How would you play the hand?

	♠ A K ♥ J 7 4 ♦ A K 9 7 ♣ A Q 10 5
♠ 9 8 6 4 ♥ K 5 ♦ 6 4 2 ♣ J 9 4 3	N W E S
	♠ Q 7 5 3 ♥ Q 9 8 ♦ A K Q ♣ Q 7 3 2

2 You are declarer with the West hand at Four Spades. North leads the jack of clubs and continues with the ten, which you ruff. When you play the A-K of spades, South shows out on the second one. How would you now play the hand?

	♠ A K Q J 2 ♥ J 6 ♦ J 8 6 3 2 ♣ 4
♠ 7 5 3 ♥ Q 9 8 ♦ A K Q ♣ Q 7 3 2	N W E S
	♠ 10 9 8 6 4 ♥ 7 5 4 3 ♦ 10 9 ♣ 5

1. To give yourself the best chance for the contract, you must breathe a silent prayer and go up with the king of hearts!

Playing the king from this combination is certainly unusual. If your sole object was to insure a heart trick, you could accomplish it by playing the five from dummy, and in that case it would not matter where the A-Q were located. Sooner or later you'd make your heart trick.

But here the problem is to make three notrump, and assuring a heart trick is not enough. You also need to be in dummy to take a club finesse.

It is true that if the king of hearts loses to the ace you will be in sad shape, but, even so, the fact remains that playing the five from dummy is a give-up play. South would presumably play his highest heart other than the ace, and, with no entry to dummy for a club finesse, your cause would be virtually hopeless.

If the king wins, your chances of making the contract rise considerably. All you now have to do is finesse the nine of clubs and, if it succeeds, repeat the finesse by leading the jack.

Even if South had the K-8-7-6, you would trap the king and make the contract. But note that if you first led the jack in this situation you would go down against proper defense.

2. You can't afford to cash the Q-J of trumps at this point, for that would leave you with good diamond tricks in your hand and no entry to cash them. To give yourself the best chance, lead the A-K of diamonds first, hoping North does not have a singleton or void. If both opponents follow suit, discontinue diamonds and cash the Q-J of trumps, discarding the queen of diamonds from dummy so as to be able to score five diamond tricks. If South proved to have only one diamond originally you would of course also cash the queen of diamonds before drawing the two remaining trumps

This is the way dandelions look after using Turf Builder Plus 2.
That's because Turf Builder Plus 2, Scotts weed-n-feed, makes dandelions curl up and disappear, roots and all. It also gets rid of chickweed, clover, plantain and most other non-grass weeds.
And since every bag contains a full feeding of Turf Builder fertilizer, it also feeds your lawn as it weeds your lawn.

It feeds as it weeds. Turf Builder Plus 2, from Scott.

BEAVER LAKE QUIZ!

(Check Your Score Below)

QUESTION	ANSWER
Where is Beaver Lake Located?	Beaver Lake is only 50 miles East of Lincoln on 73/75.
Is the Lake Ready to Use?	NO! Beaver Lake is now under construction. It will be 350 acres in size and have several miles of shoreline . . . more than enough room to permit unrestricted horsepower on boating and yet have protected areas for swimming, fishing and other activities.
Is the Planning Completed for the Dam?	YES! Complete engineering plans and specifications were submitted to the state of Nebraska on November 10, 1971.
Is a Dirt Dam All that Complicated?	You better believe it! Four consulting firms, outside engineering firms, and our own people, plus independent research specialists, have combined forces on this huge project. Beaver Lake dam will be the largest structure of its kind, under private ownership, in the entire midwest! The design calls for a height of ninety feet, a width of four hundred feet at the base . . . and it will be over 1400 feet long! Sewer lines, water lines, intake manifolds, spillways and other technicalities must be carefully considered.
Has Construction Begun Yet?	YES! State approval for construction of the coffer dam was granted on 11/16/71 and this work has been completed.
What is the Next Step?	State approval was received for the balance of this million dollar project on March 30, 1972. Contracts to install the slurry trench and cut-off wall have already been let and work began April 13, 1972.
How Can I Be Sure This Huge Dam Will Be Completed?	To assure proper performance, all payments are being made by an Omaha bank after certification by a resident engineer.
Can I Own Property Near the New Lake?	Yes. The lake is private and you can own right to the water line if you so desire; however, there are excellent lots for sale throughout the entire development, and every lot owner has full and easy access to the lake.
Can I Finance My Lot?	Yes! Bank financing is available and as soon as your lot is paid for you will be issued a Warranty Deed.
Do I Have to Join a Club?	Each property owner must be a member of the Beaver Lake Property Owner's Association. This non-profit corporation will eventually be responsible for the operation of all Beaver Lake amenities.
Are the Dues or Fees Expensive?	NO! A quarterly maintenance fee of $45.00 is paid into the Association treasury. This money pays the life guards, security patrol, sewer and water service, road and recreation area maintenance, and other operational expenses.
Are There Any Other Expenses or Charges?	NO! There are no closing costs or other charges over and above the contract of your property.
Are There Any Restrictions?	YES! Certain restrictions appear on the contract. Other rules and regulations are enforced through the Property Owner's Association.

QUESTION	ANSWER
If I Build a Cottage or Home at Beaver Lake Will I Be Able to Rent It Out?	YES! Under certain terms and conditions as set forth by the rules and regulations of the property owners association. All guests must first be issued a guest card before they can be admitted to the facilities at Beaver Lake.
Will I Get a Clear Title to My Lot?	YES! All property is conveyed by fee simple warranty deed. All lots are conveyed free and clear of all encumbrances except for restrictions, convenants, etc., as set forth in the purchase agreement.
Is Beaver Lake Registered with the Office of Interstate Land Sales?	YES! Beaver Lake property complies with all Federal and State regulations and Truth in Lending laws.
Is Title Insurance Available?	Title insurance of over one million dollars on the entire property is carried with Title Insurance Company of Minnesota.
Will Beaver Lake and its Facilities Be Open to the Public?	NO! The clubhouse, lake, pool, boat docks and other amenities are for the use of property owners and their invited guests only.
What About Water and Sewer?	Every building site purchased at Beaver Lake will be served by a central water and sewerage system with construction starting this year. The State Health Department and Environmental Control Commission required that the entire system be designed and approved, to serve all lots within the subdivision, before any part of the system could be constructed. The designing and sizing of over 40 miles of collection and distribution lines, and the designing of treatment plants to handle a potential 1800 lots has been completed. Preliminary approval from the State has been received, and final approval is expected shortly. Bids on the various components for both the water and sewerage treatment plants and for the elevated storage tanks have been received, and construction of these facilities will start as soon as final written approval has been obtained.
Will Beaver Lake Be Completed as Promised?	YES! Before DSI begins any project a study of all amenities is made and, regardless of meeting sales objectives, these features are guaranteed.
Who is DSI?	DSI is an abbreviation for Development Services (AJ), Inc. DSI owns all the stock in Beaver Lake which is a Nebraska corporation. DSI, in turn, is wholly owned by AJ Industries of Los Angeles, California. AJ is a diversified manufacturing company which has been listed continuously on the NYSE for over 75 years. DSI is the AJ subsidiary devoted to building recreational subdivisions. The officers of DSI have specialized in this activity since 1935. Through the years they have been responsible for over 50 such projects, similar to Beaver Lake, in 19 different states. They have never had a failure and have never failed to complete a development as promised.
Where is DSI Located?	Development Services (AJ), Inc., recently moved their home offices from Ohio to Omaha where they will be permanently located. The decision to move to this area was made after careful consideration of Atlanta, Memphis and St. Louis. General offices, executive offices, and banking arrangements have all been transferred to Omaha.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Friday

Johannes Kepler, born under Capricorn, Dec. 27, 1571, was not only a great astronomer, but also a brilliant astrologer. His horoscope interpretations were skillful and accurate. As much as modern astronomers hate to admit it, Kepler's works reveal that his astronomical discoveries were for the purpose of aiding in the accuracy of his astrological forecasts.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be factual where money promises are concerned. Mate, partner may be involved in plan which is costly. Draw in reins. Review information. Avoid wishful thinking. Take inventory. Delve into mystery. You gain if perceptive.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Check individual who makes claims to numerous credentials, references. Protect yourself in clinches. Take special care when it comes to affixing signature to special documents. Caution now is your ally.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Recognition due from past efforts. Aries is involved. You are repaid for being a good and patient listener. Associate, co-worker confides problem. Don't cast first stone. What you give will be returned.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Creative juices flow. You are able to imprint own style. Accent is on change, travel, variety. Stress independence, originality. Lead rather than follow. Differences can be settled. You emerge with greater prestige.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Maintain moderate pace. Hold off on decisions concerning property, home, basic security. If you are not sure, do nothing. Spiritual outlook is accented. Find out why you are here — and where you are going.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If persistent, you collect what you need. Genuine bargain is available. Traditional methods, however, may not suffice. Be willing to utilize innate ingenuity. Track down leads. Ask questions and obtain answers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Obtain hint from Libra message. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Cycle is such that you can get what you go after. Key is to know what it is you are seeking. You may be called on to make special appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Make conciliatory gesture to family member. Co-operate in project aimed at helping those who are handicapped. Taurus and Libra persons figure prominently. Maintain low profile. Let others reveal their policies.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Promises may be empty. Know this and demand collateral. It is not easy to fool you, but you can do a pretty good job of fooling yourself. Realize this and go after facts. Then you land on your feet.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Practical approach now serves your best interests. Placate family member who resents career ambitions. Make intelligent compromise. Avoid any tendency toward extremes. You have more going for you than might be imagined.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your extrasensory perception works overtime. Heed inner feelings. Don't be dissuaded by one who is skeptical and jealous. Plan for vacation. Be open to change and travel. Refuse to be shackled by nonproductive routine.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you surprise many with your wit, originality. You are going to make changes in domestic area, including residence. If single, marriage is on horizon, with November a key month. Married or single, life is due to take on a new glow. Be ready — and happy.

Lincoln Will Be Outboard Marine Marketing Center

Lincoln will become the marketing headquarters for all non-marine products of Outboard Marine Corp., it was announced by Curtis T. Morris, vice president of Outboard Marine and division manager of Cushman Motors, Lincoln subsidiary.

In addition to Cushman vehicles, other products involvedare Lawn Boy mowers and lawn and garden equipment, Pioneer chain saws and Ryan turf equipment.

Morris will become division manager of the new organization. Vaughan E. Border, director of marketing of Cushman, will assume that responsibility for all non-marine products.

Sales, advertising and service personnel for all product lines will have their offices and training center in a new Cushman office building to be constructed this summer in the Lincoln Industrial Park.

Cushman sales in the year ended last Sept. 30 exceeded $22 million. Combined sales of all non-marine products totaled $65.5 million.

Who'll It Be In '72?

One of the stories Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney used to be so fond of telling on himself at banquets was about his days as a baseball coach when one of his players was Bob Buhl.

"I was so smart in those days that I told Buhl he'd never make it as a pitcher," Devaney often related, "So I made him play first base."

Patterson to Center in '69

After getting out from under Devaney's wing, Buhl became one of the major leagues' top pitchers for several years.

The story generally was told when Devaney was discussing the Husker coaching staff's decision to make a tight end out of quarterback Frank Patrick for his senior year.

Since he was playing behind standout tight end Jim McFarland during that 1970 season, Patrick's play there had little to do with the Huskers' 9-2 record and with the fact that their current 32-game winning streak got started that season.

But another switch made for that season did turn out to be a big factor in the Huskers' future success and in each season since then a position switch has worked so well that the Husker coaching staff has looked like bona fide geniuses at manipulating players.

Center A Problem

Center had been one of the weak spots in 1968 as the Huskers had suffered though a second straight 6-4 season and as the Husker coaches looked at the ball snappers during the spring of 1969, there wasn't much encouragement for improvement.

They then took a gamble on Glenn Patterson, a starting tackle for the past two years. Patterson quickly became one of the top centers in the conference and a key factor in the 9-2 season that ended with the Sun Bowl victory over Georgia.

Dumler to Center in '70

But when spring practice rolled around again — for the 1970 season — the ranks of people available to get the ball back to either Jerry Tagge or Van Brownson was thin, indeed.

Doug Jamail was the leading candidate through spring drills, but Doug Dumler and Bill Janssen had been moved from other positions for a look.

And when fall camp opened it was apparently a fight between Janssen and Dumler. Then Janssen suffered a broken arm and Dumler turned out to be an outstanding center as a sophomore.

Another move that made the NU coaching staff look a bit smarter than the average bear.

Best Switch Of All

But the best move of all to come out of a darkened meeting room as the camera whirred was the one made last spring.

Various combinations were being tried in a rebuilding job up front with the most critical gap being the one left void with the departure of Ed Periard, a hole that had been so ably filled before him by Ken Geddes.

Glover to Middle Guard in '71

The man who was finally moved into that hole near the end of spring drills was Rich Glover and every NU football fan knows what Rich Glover did last season.

Will the tradition be carried on this year?

The leading candidate at present would have to be the move of Bob Wolfe, the 6-5, 240-pounder, from tackle to guard on offense.

Wolfe, who came to Nebraska as a tight end, has perhaps as much speed as any of the many interior linemen who have made all-American unde line coach Carl Selmer.

But the biggest and most important move may be still to come. That would be the permanent shifting of starting fullback Bill Olds to I-back where Jeff Kinney has departed.

Wolfe to Guard in '72

He was tried there for one day. "We've talked to him about it," Devaney admits, "But he says he wants to stay at fullback. He says that's where he's played for three years and he doesn't want to move."

However, Devaney agrees that doesn't mean he won't be moved if the decision is made to move him.

"If we asked him to move, I'm sure he would," says the Husker coach. "But we're still hoping some of our other I-backs come through."

A backfield of Olds at I-back, Maury Damkroger at fullback, Johnny Rodgers at slotback and David Humm at quarterback might be hard to beat — for either the Big Eight title or for a national championship.

A Dumler move to center equalled a national championship in 1970; a Glover move to middle guard did it in 1971; will a Wolfe or an Olds move do the same in 1972?

Nebraska To Make 60th Drake Appearance

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Des Moines — Nebraska will mark its 60th appearance as the 63rd annual Drake Relays, which has attracted 10 world-record holders, get under way here Friday.

The Huskers, who started coming here two years after the initial meet in 1910, will be trying to bounce back into the winner's circle after being shut out at the Kansas Relays. Five Nebraska state college teams are also here.

Coach Frank Sevigne has brought a squad of 11 and has entered Nebraska in four relays. The Huskers' two-mile relay team of Roger Chadwick, Jim Hawkins, Dan Speck and Jeff Wisemiller will be trying to repeat their Texas Relays' efforts.

The foursome won their specialty at Austin in 7:25.2 but their 7:31.0 clocking at Kansas was fourth.

Sevigne has also entered NU in the mile, sprint medley and distance medley relays. Only sprinter Horace Levy will compete in an individual event (100).

Levy will try to qualify for Saturday's finals at 2:25 p.m. Friday. The Frank Cramer university division two-mile relay is scheduled for 3:15 p.m. Friday.

Preliminaries for the John L. Griffith University mile relay are slated for 4:40, the last event on Friday's program.

Sevigne has indicated he'll have Garth Case, Larry Cimato, Leighton Priestley and Wes Leonard in the mile relay. The sprint and distance medley relays will be run Saturday.

Case in the 440, Levy in a 220, Priestley in a 220 and Lynn Hall's 880 anchor will probably comprise NU's sprint medley relay team.

The makeup of the Huskers' distance medley relay team will be determined after Friday's performances, according to Sevigne.

Former Husker runners Greg Carlberg in the mile and Charlie Greene in the 100, will compete here in the open division.

Greene is also slated to be inducted into the Drake Relays' Hall of Fame Friday night.

The five state college track teams here are topped by Hastings, with a squad of 13. Doane has 11 athletes entered, Nebraska Wesleyan seven, Kearney six and the University of Nebraska about 15.

NWU's Kurt Nielsen is hoping to improve on his fifth place in the high jump but will face world-record holder Pat Matzdorf of Wisconsin.

The Plainsmen are also entered in the two-mile, mile and distance medley relays. Doane is entered in the 440, 880, mile and sprint medley relays.

Coach Al Papik's relay teams were fourth in the sprint medley, fifth in the mile and sixth in the 880 last week at the Kansas Relays.

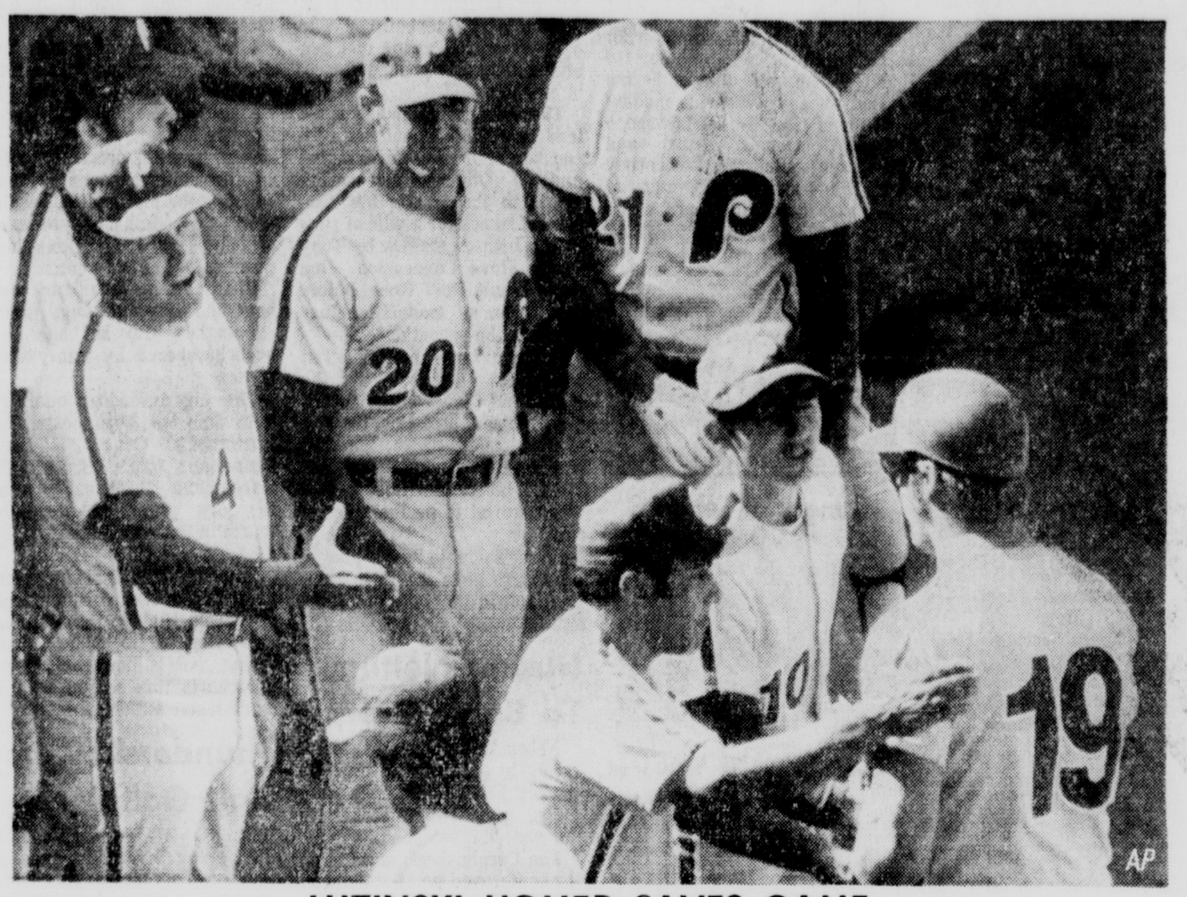

The Tigers' Don Cook in the shot put and discus and Pat Phillips in the high jump are entered in individual events. Kearney will compete in the distance medley and the Antelopes' Steve Welsh will pole vault.

Hastings coach Fred Kirchmann has entered relay teams in the high hurdle shuttle, 880, mile, sprint medley and distance medley.

Individuals entered for area teams are:

Turcotte Guides Favorite To Wire

. . . WHITED TAKES SPILL

Lexington, Ky. (AP) — Meadow Stables' Riva Ridge, under a hand ride by jockey Ron Turcotte, easily outdistanced a field of 10 other Kentucky Derby eligibles Thursday in Keeneland's Buegrass Stakes and became a stronger favorite to win the May 6 classic at Louisville.

Sensitive Music, owned by Forrest Lindsay, finished second under punishment, while Thurloe Square, Introductive, Divorce Trial, and Majestic Needle followed, in that order.

Paul Shawhan's Air Woodley went to the front early in the 1⅛ mile Bluegrass with Mr Charge alongside for the first six furlongs while Turcotte brought Riva Ridge from the outside post position into third, two lengths behind the leaders.

Turcotte began his move with half-a-mile to go and swept to the front in less than half-a-furlong. Riva Ridge was timed in 1:49 3-5, almost two seconds off the track record.

Robert Mitchell's Our Trade Winds fell during the race when he clipped the heels of Divorce Trial in the first turn.

Jockey Dave Whited, aboard Our Trade Winds, was taken to a hospital for examination after his horse tumbled. Whited has ridden several times in the past at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Riva Ridge, winner of five stakes in succession last year and the Hibiscus this season, paid $2.60, $2.60, and $2.20 while Sensitive Music returned $13.40 and $8.20 and Thurloe Square, owned by W. C. Robinson Jr., paid $5.40

The race was only Riva Ridge's third of 1972, but trainer Lucien Laurin said that he waned a fresh horse going into the Derby and needed only the galloping victory in the Bluegrass as a final prep for the world's most famous race.

He got just that. Riva Ridge was four lengths in front at the wire with another three and one half separating Sensitive Music and Thurloe Square.

Sensitive Music, his best effort previously this seasin a second place finish in the Dade Metropolitan, was stung repeatedly by jockey Carlos Marquez' whip as the son of Sensitive drove toward the finish line vainly trying to catch the fleeing winner.

Don Brumfield beat a steady tatoo on Thurloe Square, who has only one victory in 10 starts this season and, like most of those who followed him to the wire, is an unlikely starter in the one and one quarter mile Derby at Churchill Downs.

Following Majestic Needle at the finish were, in order, Mr. Charge, Bicker, Sir Woodley, and Breakozone.

After the first quarter mile of the Bluegrass, Riva Ridge was four lengths behind the pacesetting Sir Woodley and dropped back to five after half a mile.

But from then on, Turcotte made it plain there was only one horse in the race.

STANDER WORKS OUT

Boston (AP) — Heavyweight Ron Stander sparred six rounds Thursday in preparation for his title bout with heavyweight champion Joe Frazier May 25 in Omaha, Neb.

Stander, managed by Dick Noland of Omaha, is working under veteran trainer Johnny Dunn.

"The kid is working hard, running five or six miles and boxing about six rounds every day," Dunn said.

Champion Monzon To Fight In France

Paris (AP) — World middleweight champion Carlos Monzon of Argentina will fight Jean-Claude Bouttier of France for the title on Tuesday June 27 at Colombes Olympic Stadium in suburban Paris, matchmakers Charley Michaelis and Gilbert Benaim announced Thursday.

The bout will be the first middleweight championship match in France in 40 years.

Midwest Cancelled

The Nebraska Modified Racing Association's first scheduled racing card at Midwest Speedway Friday was cancelled due to the weather.

Cass County Charges Against Rodgers Dropped

Plattsmouth, Neb. (UPI) — Cass County attorney James Begley said Thursday the state could not prove a marijuana charge against Nebraska football star Johnny Rodgers.

"No charge is being filed and I have asked that his bond be refunded," Begley told Cass County Judge Raymond J. Case.

"John Rodgers was found in a situation of suspicious circumstances," he said of the all-American Nebraska football player. "The prosecution cannot be based on suspicion."

The court found Rodger's companion, John H. Grant, 20, guilty and fined him $100 and costs on a charge of possessing less than one ounce of marijuana. Grant was also assessed $42 in costs for speeding 87 miles an hour on the interstate highway.

Omaha attorney Robert Fromkin, who represented both Rodgers and Grant, entered a plea of no contest for Grant.

Rodgers and Grant were arrested April 22 on suspicion of possession of marijuana by state troopers H. L. Wood and D. L. Spangler. Spangler testified Thursday that he stopped Grant's car after his VASCAR unit clocked the car at 87 miles an hour for 1½ miles.

"I observed the odor of marijuana smoke," Spangler said. "I found marijuana on the front seat and the front floor mats of the car."

Begley told the court that about 2.9 grams of marijuana were found in the car, including two previously smoked cigarettes, one in the rear ash tray and the other underneath the back seat.

"They were old and could not have been used this particular night," Begley said. "So we have less than one ounce involved in this charge."

Fromkin said Grant had no previous criminal record and that he had been working toward a laboratory technician's position at the Lincoln regional hospital.

Fromkin said he was not questioning the authorities' search of the car, but argued that "because of the miniscule amount," he asked the court to be as lenient as possible.

"Grant had no previous record," Fromkin said. "He was not pushing and he was not selling."

Rodgers, who gained all-American honors while playing for Nebraska's No. 1-rated football team last season, was in the courtroom. He was not brought before the bench, however, and would not comment to newsmen.

Lincoln campus chancellor Dr. James Zumberge said: "I'm pleased for Mr. Rodger's sake, and for the sake of the university, that the charges have been dropped."

PACE Program Slated Saturday

Seniors on the Cornhusker football squad and University of Nebraska faculty members are making final preparations for a flag football game in Memorial Stadium at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Bruce Douthit, coordinator of the event, said the flag football game, a bicycle race, and a rock concert are being staged Saturday to raise funds for the Program of Active Commitment to Education (PACE).

The PACE program was established by the Associated Students of the University of Nebraska in 1970 to bolster the financial resources available to lower income young people. All proceeds from the activities Saturday will go to the PACE program, Douthit said.

Native Record, Terra Lad Head Expectation Field

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Grand Island — The 2-year-olds take the spotlight at Fonner Park Friday as five of the ground's best compete in the $8,000 Expectation Stakes.

Paul M. Kemling's Native Record, the only filly in the field, has scored two victories at Fonner including a head decision over heavily-favored Lisa's Alone in last Friday's second division of the Juvenile Stakes. She is expected to attract heavy wagering support in the second running of the Expectation, which carries the third-highest purse of the current Fonner meeting.

Although Native Record is the only contestant with two wins, her status as a filly earned her a three-pound allowance from racing secretary Dean Williams. All entrants will tote 119 pounds.

Dennis Coberly's Terra Lad, after running wide in his first start, scooted to an impressive nine-length triumph on April 3 at Fonner and posted a :46 1-5 clocking over four-furlongs — the same distance as Friday's Expectation scamper. That reading is the best time by a 2-year-old in the Third City this year and is just 2-5 seconds off Bold Accent's track record of :45 4-5.

Native Record will be ridden by Fred Ecoffey while Terra Lad will be steered by Ken Jones.

Also vying for consideration are Guy Rorick's Solid Pepper, Courtney Quinn's Deserata and Rentie Hamilton's Dark Maniac.

Solid Pepper, with a win and a second at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Ark., was beaten by a head by Rideniron on April 15 in a four-furlong allowance scamper in his last outing.

Deserata, beaten by four lengths by the undefeated Rideniron on March 22, triumphed in a four-furlong maiden test on March 28.

Dark Maniac has a win and a third to his credit.

In Thursday's featured sixth race, Sunrise Road scored his first 1972 victory in five attempts as the chestnut gelding defeated five rivals.

Clocked in 1:48 1-5 for the mile allowance test with a $2,000 purse for 3-year-olds, Sunrise Road returned $9.60, $4.60 and $2.80. Maverick Miss placed for $5.20 and $3.20 while Jamies Relic showed for $2.80.

The Mutuel Handle of $250,739 established a Fonner Park record for an eight-race weekday card.

Jenner Scores Victory In Decathalon At Drake

. . . EDGES HILL, WANAMAKER

Des Moines, Iowa (AP) — Bruce Jenner, a senior from Graceland College of Lamoni, won the decathalon here Thursday held in conjunction with the 63th annual Drake Relays.

Jenner came from third place to edge by defending champion Rick Wanamaker of Des Moines, who was sidelined with an injury, and Kansas Relays champion Gary Hill of Oklahoma Christian.

Jenner finished with 7,678 points, a personal high, and his total also qualified him for a berth in the U.S. Olympic trials in June.

Hill finished with 7,291 and Eugene Miller of Athens, Ohio, was third at 7,116.

Wanamaker finished sixeth at 6,939 points, but did not finish the final event — the 1,500 meters — because of a leg injury.

Wanamaker held a 58-point lead over Hill after the first day. He remained in the lead until Jenner got off a 227-foot 11½ inch javelin throw. Jenner thus moved into a 113-point lead.

Wanamaker took one step in the final event, the 1,500 meters, so he wouldn't be disqualified or aggravate his injury.

Rex Harvey of the Air Force and former Iowa State trackman was fourth at 7,023, followed by Gene Hackney of Texas at 7,007.

Three Drake trackmen finished nine through 11 as Jeff Swenson collected 6,742 points, Mike Murphy 6,268 and Steve Scullen 6,262.

Harry Suda of Loras College of Dubuque was 12th in the 14-man field with 6,111.

Don Ussery, a Drake freshman, completed only nine events and finished last with 5,102 points.

110-meter hurdles — 1. Larry Frank, South Dakota State, 15.0, 848. 2. Gary Hill, Oklahoma Christian, 15.1, 837. 3. Eugene Miller, Athens, Ohio, 15.2, 827 and Mark Harris, Kansas, 15.2, 827. 5. Gene Hackney, Texas, 15.3, 817 and Bruce Jenner, Graceland, 15.3, 817. 7. Don Ussery, Drake, 15.4, 807. 8. Rick Wanamaker, Des Moines, Iowa, 15.5, 797. 9. Jeff Swenson, Drake, 156, 787. 10. Rigby Leads Gym Meet

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Olympic hopeful Cathy Rigby scored a near flawless 9.55 on the balance bean—her speciality—and took an early lead in the wimen's competition at the National AAU Gymnastics Championships Thursday.

The youngers from Los Alamitos, Calif., who was 16th in the 1968 Olympics at the age of 16, earned a 9.2 score in vaulting to take a slim five-hundredths of a point lead over three-time winner Linda Metheny of Champaign, Ill. Miss Metheny was second in both the balance beam and the vaulting preliminaries.

Defending men's champion, Yoshi Takei of Georgia Tech, an exchange student who doesn't plan to return home to Japan for an Olympic tryout, led prime challenger Makato Sakamoto of Eugene, Ore. after three events.

Takei scored a 9.25 rings and gained 26.35 to 26.15 margin over Sakamoto, who was the top U.S. finisher in the 1964 Olympics and is coming back from a knee injury.

Iowans Combine In ABC Tourney To Finish 7th

Long Beach, Calif. (AP) — Mike Berlin and Tim Taylor of Muscatine, Iowa combined for a 1,297 series Thursday to tie for seventh place in the regular doubles division of the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Berlin led the pair with 663 and Taylor chipped in 634 as they equaled the score rolled by Bill Secht and Eddie Maehren of St. Paul, Minn., March 19.

Berlin and Taylor were the first bowlers to make the top 10 in doubles in more than a week. Jerry Nutt and Bill Stanfield of Grand Rapids, Mich., lead the division with 1,350.

Ron Yeager of Maquoketa, Iowa led all-events scoring Thursday with a nine-game total of 1,914 while Fredy Steinicker of City of Commerce, Calif., had the day's best singles series, 683.

Alam Ladies Tourney Begins Play Friday

San Antonio, Tex. (AP) — A field of 69 professionals and two amateurs will begin play Friday in the opening round of the $25,000 Alamo Ladies Open golf tournament.

Rain washed out the second day of pro-am play Thursday and the pro-am was rescheduled to overlap the first round of strokes play.

Sixty of the pros will be playing Friday with amateur teams.

Included in the field are defending champion Sandra Haynie and such established stars as Betsy Rawls, Mickey Wright, Kathy Whitworth, Marlens Hagge and Jane Blalock.

The 54-hole Ladies Professional Golf Association tour event is being played at the 6,451-yard Olmos Basin golf course.

Omaha To Lose Ranger Owners

New York (AP) — The New York Rangers of the National Hockey League will shift their top farm club from Omaha of the Central League to Providence of the American League next season, general manger-coach Emile Francis said Thursday.

Francis said the Omaha club will be affiliated with another NHL club next season. The move was made because of Providence's proximity to New York, Francis said.

NBC, NCAA Ink Basketball Pact

Kansas City (AP) — The National Broadcasting Company and the National Collegiate Athletic Association have signed a two-year contract for television rights to the NCAA basketball championship.

The NCAA said that in addition to the 1973 and 1974 championship television rights, NBC receives the rights of first negotiation for a subsequent period.

The 1973 championship will be at St. Louis.

Greeno Set To Preside At Drake

Des Moines, Iowa — Woody Greeno, track coach at Nebraska Wesleyan for 17 years, will preside over the college division field of the Drake Relays here Friday and Saturday.

Greeno was accorded the honor of referee for the meet about two months ago. Veteran Doane coach Al Papik was the Drake referee last year and former Kearney State coach Charlie Foster received the honor three years ago.

Greeno will enter three relay teams — two-mile, mile and distance medley — and high jump prodigy Kurt Nielsen.

Mike Struebing, Lee Richardson, Jim French and Bob Graham will comprise the two-mile unit. Roger Hurst, French, Struebing and Graham will combine in the mile relay. Hurst (440), Struebing (880), Graham (1,320) and Ron Greeno (mile) will compete in the distance medley.

Richardson, a freshman from Benedict, is a newcomer to NWU's two-mile quartet. Doane (led by a crack sprint medley team of Greg Wells, Lawrence Baker, Dennis Bock and Ricardo Bailey), , Kearney Hastings and the University of Nebraska at Omaha are other state college teams set to compete here.

Sunday Racing At Suffolk Downs

Boston (AP) — Thoroughbred racing will be held this Sunday at Suffolk Downs, the first time such racing has been held on a Sunday in the state since parimutuel racing was legalized in 1953, the track announced Thursday.

Sunday racing is permitted under a bill passed by the legislature and signed by Gov. Francis W. Sargent Wednesday.

Luzinski Homer Aids Phillies

By Associated Press

A barrage of four home runs, including Grez Luzinski's tie-breaking leadoff shot in the ninth inning, powered Philadelphia over San Francisco 7-6 and Cincinnati squeezed past Pittsburgh 5-4 Thursday.

The American League was idle and only four National League games were on the abbreviated major league schedule.

In the lone afternoon game, Don Money belted a pair of homers and Deron Johnson hit one for the Phillies, while Dave Kingman hit his fifth of the season for the Giants.

The Phils held a 6-3 lead after 5½ innings but Kingman's homer in the bottom of the sixth cut the margin to two runs, then the Giants knocked out Philadelphia starter Dick Selma in the seventh as Tito Fuentes singled home one run and Kingman's grounded sent in another.

The Pirates jumped to a 3-0 lead on Rennie Stennett's two-run homer in the third inning and Al Oliver's run-scoring single in the fourth, but Cincinnati struck for a pair of runs in the fifth on singles by Tony Perez, Dave Concepcion, Don Gullett and Pete Rose before Concepcion's leadoff homer tied it in the seventh.

In the top of the ninth, Ted Uhleander, acquired by the Reds from Cleveland in an off-season trade, broke the tie with a base-loaded single, his first National League hit, and Denis Menke hit a sacrifice fly for what proved to be the winning run.

Oliver's double and a pair of grounders gave the Bucs their final run in the bottom of the ninth.

Husker Netters To Battle Buffs

Nebraska's tennis team, trying to avoid eighth place in the Big Eight Conference standings, play two matches in Colorado this weekend.

The Cornhuskers, seventh in the conference point standings, play at the Air Force in Colorado Springs Friday before taking on fifth place Colorado at Boulder Saturday.

The point standings are determined on a round-robin basis. The Big Eight meet at Prairie Village, Kan., will finalize the league chase in three weeks.

Lunch Honors NU Wrestlers

The University of Nebraska wrestling team will be honored by the Lincoln Optimists Club at a 4 p.m. luncheon Sunday.

The event is scheduled at 28th and Woods Ave. and Highway 2 in an apartment clubhouse. Joe George, a senior from Omaha, will receive the high point wrestling trophy and Steve Ravenscroft of Valentine will be honored as the outstanding freshman wrestler.

Gal Kegler Records 266

Beulah Buettow, bowling with the Bob's Tavern team in the Ladies Late League Wednesday night at Parkway Lanes, rolled a 266 game and totaled a 530 series.

The 266 effort was a whopping 107 pins over her normal league average.

Lincoln Girls Track Meet Slated For Stuart Stadium

. . . EAST SET TO DEFEND TITLE

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Weather permitting, the Lincoln Public School girls track and field championships are scheduled for the Stuart Stadium oval at East High Friday afternoon.

East captured the initial meet last spring with Northeast, Southeast and Lincoln High following in that order.

The defending champion returns in five events, with all three girls who earned points in the shot put and discus back for another try.

Northeast's Bobbie Kaenel won the shot with a heave of 38-3¼ last May, with teammate Weny Francis second and Southeast's Anna Christensen third. Miss Kaenel currently ranks fourth in the state with a best of 38-½ this season. Miss Francis ranks eighth in the state at 37-1½.

Miss Christensen claimed the discus title last year with a 101-1½ effort, while East's Sharon Baack was second and Miss Francis third.

Miss Baack is presently tenth on the statewide chart after spinning the platter 107-0, while Miss Christenson's best to date of 103-8½ also surpasses her winning toss of last year.

East's Diane Dunnigan won both the 440 and long jump events last May but she has been hampered by injury this season.

The city's leading quarter-mile time has been posted by Northeast's Cherri Landenberger, while Southeast's Karen Stone, third last year in the long jump, is presently fourth in the entire state at 17-0.

The fifth individual champion returning is Kathy Hutchinson of Lincoln High in the 880. She was clocked in 2:39.6, last spring, but is now second on the charts this season with a much faster 2:31.8.

East's Toni Churchill did not compete last year though she is now tops in the state in the high jump and tied for second in the long jump.

The only other Lincolnite on the statewide charts is East's Lora Appleman, who is tied for fourth in the high jump at 4-11. She finished third in that event in last spring's city championships.

Finals in the high jump, long jump and shot put will open the meet Friday at 2:45. Preliminaries in the running events follow at 3:10, with the finals slated to start at 4:10. The concluding relay is scheduled for 5:25 p.m.

Thundershowers Halt Golf Meet

Dallas (AP) — A severe thunderstorm forced cancellation of Thursday's scheduled opening round in the $125,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

Officials scheduled single rounds for Friday and Saturday and a double round of 36 holes for Sunday.

None of the field of 144 had teed off when the heavy rains made the Preston Trail Golf Club course unplayable and the round was washed out.

Patriettes Win

Wahoo — The John F. Kennedy College Patriettes boosted their record to 4-0 with two wins at Kearney State College this week. Georgia Gomez and Gloria Graves pitched the victories.

Knicks Still Clinging To Underdog's Status

. . . DESPITE HOLDING 1-0 LEAD OVER LAKERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) —The New York Knicks, despite their lopsided victory over the Los Angeles Lakers, didn't seem anxious to shed their underdog role in the series for the National Basketball Association championship.

The Knicks were anything but overconfident following Wednesday night's series opener, a 114-92 triumph at the Forum.

"I'm very happy we beat them," said 6-foot-8 New York center Jerry Lucas. "But I'm very cautious, too. The Lakers, as far as the record goes, are the best team in NBA history. This same kind of loss happened to them in the semifinals against Milwaukee and they came back to win in six."

The Knicks won the game by making 72 per cent of their shots in the first half to go ahead by 18 points. They led by up to 30 in the fourth uarter.

The Lakers, who lost to Milwaukee 93-72 in the Western Conference playoff opener, and Knicks resume the best-of-seven series at 4:40 p.m. (PST) Sunday in the Forum.

Los Angeles, which has lost all four of its Sunday afternoon games this season, including that opener to Milwaukee, lost its argument for a night game to the American Broadcasting Co., which is televising the series nationally.

It seemed the Knicks couldn't miss a shot, especially in the opening period when they were close to 80 per cent accurate. Lucas made 9 of 11 first-half shots, finishing 13 for 21 and 26 points. Game honors went to Bill Bradley, 6-for-6 at intermission and 11-for-12 overall for 29 points.

Dave DeBusschere, Knicks forward who wrote "The Open Man" after New York defeated Los Angeles for the title two years ago, plugged his book.

"We just try to keep the ball moving and try to hit the open man," said DeBusschere, who had 19 points and 18 rebounds.

But he added: "We just had an exceptional shooting night. There's no way you can expect something like that to happen and it probably won't happen again in the series."

Bradley, who matched his alltime playoff game scoring high, said, "Even though we shot well, you can't overlook our defense. We did an outstanding job on them."

The Knicks, who had the best team defense in the league during the regular season, throttled Los Angelese' guards, Jerry West and Gail Goodrich, who had averaged a combined 52 points a game in the regular season when the Lakers won four of five games from Nw York.

Goodrich scored 16 of his 20 points in the first quarter, then ran into foul trouble, and a good defensive job by New York reserve Dean Meminger. West could make only 3 of 15 field goal attempts and had 12 points.

"We will have to play better defense," said West. "We've been able to come back and win when we've got to."

He wasn't giving the New York defense all the credit for his inaccuracy. "I missed some good shots. I'm not shooting well in practice. Maybe it's psychological," West said.

Red Holzman, the New York coach, said, "You have to shoot well and play good defense to beat LA. We'll just have to wait and see about the series."

The Lakers were favored after setting an NBA record of 69 regular season victories and beating the defending champion Bucks.

The series moves to New York for the third and fourth games Wednesday and Friday nights.

Ak-Sar-Ben Could Have Postponement

Omaha (AP)— The opening of the 59-day Ak-Sar-Ben racing season on Tuesday could be delayed by a dispute between the track and horsemen.

Tom Brock, Ak-Sar-Ben general manager, said Thursday that negotiations between the track and the horse owners were continuing. He said Ak-Sar-Ben officials have been negotiating with the horsemen since last wiinter, when a three-year contract expired.

A spokesman for the horsemen said that the horses will not run Tuesday without a contract.

Brock said, "This may be their decision . . . but Ak-Sar-Ben is prepared to race, prepared to take entries if they want to enter their horses."

Harry Farnham, Nebraska racing commissioner, said the commission is watching the negotiations closely to insure that as much progress is being made as possible. He said the dispute centers on the amount of purse the horsemen are entitled to.

Farnham said the commission wants to see the season open on time.

Casey Resigns Post At South Sioux City

Ray Casey, the head basketball coach at South Sioux City High School the past seven years, has resigned to accept a teaching position in a Sioux City, Ia., junior high.

After a building program materialized, his 1968-69 team was 15-2, followed by records of 15-4 and 16-5 the next two seasons. This year's club managed but five victories, however.

Casey's overall record at South Sioux was 66-63.

Rains Cause End To Hastings Meet

Hastings (AP) — The invitational girls track meet sponsored by the Hastings Chamber of Commerce, already postponed one day because of rain, has been cancelled, it was announced Thursday.

The meet expected to attract some 600 girl athletes, originally was booked for Thursday and then shifted to Friday.

San Diego Chooses Zimmer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Preston Gomez was fired Thursday as Manager of the San Diego Padres and third base coach Don Zimmer, 41, was named to succeed him. Gomez directed the National League baseball club since it was formed in August 1968.

The announcement was made by E. J. "Buzzie" Bavasi, club president. Bavasi said the change was made after he and Gomez had met for a short time earlier in the day.

"The meeting was very amicable," Bavasi said. "I explained to Preston why I thought a change in managers was necessary at this time."

The Padres are in fourth place in the Western Division with a 4-7 record but have lost five of their last six games. They have finished last in each of their three seasons, losing 100 games in 1971.

Zimmer, in his 23rd season in professional baseball, rejoined the Padres' organization this year. In 1969 he managed San Diego's farm team in Key West, Fla., and in 1970 handled the club's Salt Lake City team in the Pacific Coast League.

Zimmer was third base coach at Montreal last season.

Gomez compiled a record of 180 victories and 316 losses with San Diego. Before the expansion team was formed, he was a coach at Los Angeles for three seasons.

Bavasi said, "After 12 years association with Preston, I continue to consider him an exceptionally qualified baseball man, and I told him that he would have a job in my organization any time he desired." Zimmer was a member of Dodger teams which Bavasi supervised in Brooklyn and Los Angeles. He played 13 years in the majors and has been with Washington of the American League and Chicago, New York and Cincinnati of the National League.

In the 1955 World Series, he played with Brooklyn and in 1959 played with the Dodgers in the World Series of that year. Zimmer also managed teams at Knoxville, Tenn., Buffalo, N.Y., and Indianapolis, Ind.

NU, K-State Opener Delayed By Rains

Manhattan, Kan. — Nebraska's three-game baseball series with Kansas State, scheduled to open here Friday, was postponed by one day Thursday because of wet grounds.

The twin bill set for Friday will be played Saturday with a single game set for Sunday.

Rains Force Halt To Royals' Tilt

Omaha (UPI) — Thursday night's American Association game between Omaha and Oklahoma City has been rained out.

The clubs clash Friday night, hold a doubleheader on Saturday and a single game Sunday afternoon.

Officers Elected

Margaret Penney and Elizabeth Petrakis, both assistant professors of Physical Education in the Department of Physical Education at the University of Nebraska, were elected president and vice-president, respectively, of the Nebraska Women's Intercollegiate Sports Council for 1972-1973 at the group's spring meeting at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Durocher Ready

Chicago (AP) — Manager Leo Durocher will continue medication for a throat condition but will be able to rejoin the Chicago Cubs Friday when they open a home stand trying to break an eight-game losing streak.

Chilcutt Set To Direct Ak Racing

Omaha — Ak-Sar-Ben Executive Director and General Manager Tom Brock announced Thursday that Noel Chilcutt again will head the experienced staff of officials for the 1972 race meeting, May 2-July 15.

Chilcutt, who has handled a variety of duties for 35 years at Ak-Sar-Ben, again will serve as Director of Racing and as a member of the Board of Stewards.

Joining him in the Stewards stand will be James B. Hall and Jack Fickler, who will serve as State Steward.

Harold Krovitz returns for his seventh season as Racing Secretary and Handicapper. He will be assisted by James Wallace, who also serves as a Placing Judge.

Ak-Sar-Ben Administrative Assistant William Murphy again will handle the announcing duties.

Other Ak-Sar-Ben veterans include Robert Bates, Clerk of Scales; Irving Anderson, Paddock Judge; Robert Farmer, Patrol Judge; Earl Thompson, Placing Judge; Hank Mills, Starter; John Zack, Clocker, Timer and Identifier; Jess Jolly, Mutuels Manager; Arland Ward, Supervisor of the Jockey Quarters; Robert Pollock, Patrol Judge; and Veterinarians O. H. Person and E. R. Hinshaw.

The only newcomer is Placing Judge Lawrence Howey.

Game Commission To Halt Using 'Hard Sell' Approach

. . . 'NOT TO DISCOURAGE NONRESIDENTS'

By United Press International

The State Game Commission decided unanimously Thursday to scrap the traditional "hard sell" approach to attracting the nonresident sportsman to Nebraska.

The action came on a motion offered by commissioner Bruce Cowgill of Silver Creek, who said the state should "get out of the hard sell competitive market" to attract the nonresident.

The Commissioner said the new policy adopted would not be aimed at discouraging the nonresident from coming to the state.

"He would be just as welcome here as he ever was," he said.

But, he said, the basic philosophy behind the plan would be an "informative" rather than "pursuasive" effort, more along the lines of a "soft sell" attitude.

Cowgill, chairman of a Commission Subcommittee on Information and Education, made the suggestion after Dick Schaffer, head of that particular division, discussed tentative plans for using next year's $50,000 promotion fund.

Cowgill said out-of-state participation "might drop off" somewhat, but he said in the long run the policy change would probably not have a substantial impact.

Earlier in the meeting, Schaffer told the commission preliminary results of a nonresident survey indicated the majority learned of Nebraska's sporting opportunities by word of mouth instead of through the various advertising campaigns.

Assistant commission director Richard Spady heralded the policy recommended by Cowgill saying "we're glad to have some direction in this area."

In response to a question on whether the action would mean dropping the placement of Nebraska displays at various sports shows across the nation, Cowgill said it appeared that would be "inconsistent" with the policy.

"I don't think we should get into the administrative part of this," he said. "I think it is up to the administrators to interpret this policy and it seems to me those displays would be inconsistent with it."

In place of national or regional advertising, Cowgill suggested, and Schaffer said he was "leaning toward," money would be used to produce a new movie on the opportunities in the state.

The film, the commissioner said, would be available to sportsmens groups and schools outside the state.

"It would serve two purposes," Cowgill said. "It would be informative to the sportsman looking for a place to go and educational for school children."

Blue Chips Fluctuate, End Lower

New York (AP) — Bluechip stock prices edged marginally back and forth Thursday finally closing lower. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dipped .97 to 945.97. At one time it was ahead about two points.

Analysts said the market was experiencing profit taking and investor hesitation, influenced by the fact President Nixon's Vietnam address Wednesday night lacked the surprise necessary to motivate buying.

"Real fears over battlefield news from Vietnam, plus price rollbacks by the Price Comission, dominated investor decisions," said Robert Stovall, of Reynolds Securities Inc.

In the news background the Commerce Department reported that the nation's trade deficit surged to record levels in the first quarter of 1972.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1 300 common stocks rose .07 to 59.69.

Big Board volume was 15.74 million shares, compared with 17.71 million shares Wednesday.

There were 674 advances and 733 declines out of 1,760 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 19 new yearly highs and 82 new lows.

The American Stock Exchange prices change index dipped .05 to 27.92. Volume was 3.89 million shares compared with 4.90 million Wednesday. There were 370 advances and 529 declines out of 1,200 issues traded.

The Associated Press 60-stock average dipped .5 to 334.7, with industrials off .6, rails off .9 and utilities up .5.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up .16 to 107.05.

The NASDAQ composite index of Over-the-Counter stocks rose .09 to 131.01, while the industrial index dipped .11 to 139.12.

A total of 128 big blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the Big Board, compared with 139 Wednesday. The biggest was 734,100 shares of Gulf Oil at 25, off ¼.

Rubber issues, farm implements, aircrafts, oils, chemicals, and metals were off. Rails and mail order-retail were mixed. All other stock categories were higher.

Corporate bonds were unchanged, and governments were higher.

Soybeans Take Another Beating

Chicago (AP) — Soybean futures took another battering on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday.

Nearby or old crop options closed 7¼ cents a bushel lower, bringing the loss for two straight days to 12 cents.

Soybean meal prices fell up to $2.35 a ton and soybean oil declined nearly 25 points.

The nearby May wheat options advanced 1⅝ cents but deferred options were a small fraction lower than the previous close. Corn futures lost ¾ of a cent but oats gained as much.

Iced broilers fell back up to 20 points.

At the close, soybeans were 3½ to 7¼ cents a bushel lower, May 3.44; wheat was ¼ lower to 1⅜ cents higher, May 1.64; corn was ⅜ to ¾ lower, May 1.22¼; and oats were ½ to 1 cent higher, May 67⅜ cents.

Demonstration

Kansas City (UPI) — A new computer information retrieval terminal for police squad cars was demonstrated by Kansas City police. The typewriter keyboard and display screen device will enable the police in the squad to get information instantly by radio from the FBI's computerized files in Washington or to check the license numbers of suspicious cars.

Council Bluffs Mayor Is Accused Of Subterfuge In Land Purchase

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — Council Bluffs Mayor Joseph Katelman was accused Thursday of "attempting an obvious subterfuge" in connection with the purchase of seven parcels of land in his sister's name at Last Saturday's county land auction.

County Board member D. H. Filbert said Katelman was told in an opinion by County Atty. Lyle Rodenburg that as a city councilman, he could not purchase land in the auction for less than the taxes outstanding against the property.

Rodenburg's opinion on conflict of interest was given to the board April 19 after Katelman had appeared before the board asking if he could bid, Filbert said.

The 86 parcels auctioned at the Courthouse Saturday were taken by the county when former owners failed to pay taxes due.

At the auction, Katelman purchased nine parcels in the name of his sister, Mrs. Jennie Bear of Omaha and seven were bought for less than taxes due.

Said Katelman: "I'm sure this attack by Filbert is personal, but I'm willing to have the whole matter turned over to Iowa Atty. Gen. Richard Turner for a ruling.

"I've been buying and selling property for my sister for 30 years and she trusts my judgment."

After the sale, Katelman filed the county auditor's office a statement from his sister, stating he was her agent.

The total tax on the nine parcels was $7,200 and the total bids were $2,300.

All properties are in Council Bluffs and none was previously owned by Katelman or his sister.

The matter apparently will come before the City Council since the County Board declined to approve the sale and forwarded the list of properties to the council.

The city, county and school district all must approve the sale of land below tax value.

The board also rejected a bid by Carter Lake Mayor Wilson Mabrey, in hiw own name, for three Carter Lake properties. The bid was $220 and the taxes totaled $546.

City To Display New Buses At Two Locations Saturday

Two of Lincoln's 33 new buses will be on public display Saturday at two locations.

One of the new air-conditioned 45-passenger buses will be parked at 13th and O Sts., to give citizens a chance to go through the new buses and see the modern interiors of the vehicles.

A second bus will be parked at the Gateway Shopping Center.

According to Jerald Rae, manager of the Lincoln Transportation System, the two "open buses" will give citizens an opportunity to compare the comforts of modern bus riding with the "old buses."

"Those whose only contact with mass transportation was several years ago or with the old bus fleet will be pleasantly surprised with the new fleet," Rae said.

"The new intra-city equipment is as comfortable as much of the inter-city bus equipment and new methods in air-conditioning, pollution control, and bus construction make these new buses nearly as quiet and comfortable as many cars."

"In order to give new passengers a chance to ride the buses and to say thanks to the regular riders," Rae said, "the two buses which will be on display will also distribute special "Inaugural Commuter Passes" which will sell for $5.00 and be good for the entire month of May."

Rae says the number of rides that can be taken by the purchaser is unlimited except that only the purchaser is allowed to use the pass.

Lincoln 4-H Team Captures Honors In Soil Judging

Lincoln's 4-H soil judging team has placed first regionally and third nationally during competition this week in Oklahoma City.

Shari Johnson captured fourth place in individual judging in a field including more than 900 participants.

The team will return to Lincoln Friday afternoon.

CBS Of Omaha Reprimanded By Real Estate Unit

Omaha (AP) — An order of reprimand will be issued to the CBS Real Estate Co. of Omaha, the Nebraska Real Estate Commission decided Thursday.

The commission voted 4-0, with one member absent, to reprimand the company after a hearing on a complaint by C. A Caler of Omaha.

Caler said he purchased a house through the real estate company, then agreed to pay $1,000 for three additional improvements.

After he moved into the house and most of the improvements were made, Caler said the company that did the work billed him for $445 more in charges. He said he refused to pay the additional amount. The construction company told him they would turn the bill over to a collection agency if he refused to pay, Caler said.

Caler said he then filed a complaint with the commission. After the complaint was filed, he said, John A. Clow, secretary of the real estate company, agreed to drop the demand for the extra charges.

Secretary of State Allen Beermann, who also is commission chairman, said the reprimand was ordered because the "transaction was a little shoddy."

Mexico will have more than 60,000 miles of highways when present road construction is completed.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How to Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A X Y D L B A A X R
to L O N G F E L L O W

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
